UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council was called into special session (at 2 p.m., Victoria Time), today to consider the Hungarian situation.

The call was issued by the new council president, Nasrallah Entezam of Iran, as a result of reports received Thursday night that new Russian units had entered Hungarian territory.

113 Trapped By Mine Blast

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The fate of 113 coal miners trapped more than a mile inside a blast-shattered colliery here grew darker by the hour today.

Harold Gordon, Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation coal chief, announced a section of the shaft leading to the trapped men would be sealed off for "two or three hours" to control a fire burning there. For at least that period there would be no hope of rescue. Meanwhile the toll grew. A burned body found near the 3,200-foot level raised the number of known dead to 13. Five other men are in hospital. Mr. Gordon said rescue crews found a fire at 3,200 feet. They could go no closer to the point where the men were working. This was believed to be below the 5,700-foot level. That would be about 4,000 feet from the surface.

FEAR GRIPS TOWN

Grief and numbing fear gripped this colliery town as nearly 20 hours passed without word from the men trapped after a great explosion in the deep underground tunnels of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 4 pit.

The dead and injured accounted for so far were taken from the higher levels of the pit, one of the deepest in the country.

This town of 8,000 still would not concede there were no survivors of the blast and poisonous gases that seeped into the mine workings.

"There's still a faint hope," said mine manager George Calder.

The dead, whose numbers rose slowly from one in the immediate explosion at 5 p.m. AST (1 p.m., PST) time Thursday to 12 early today, included two rescue workers—courageous draughtsmen killed by coal gas after entering the mine to search for the missing.

The 12th victim died in hospital where five other men lie with critical injuries. They had been in the shattered surface buildings and workings above the 3,300-foot level where most of the other miners are believed to have been working.

Four of the injured, accompanied by two doctors, were flown to Halifax in navy helicopters.

Two more rescue crews entered the mine in mid-morning, relieving those who had been there through the night.

WOMEN FOLK WAIT

Mothers, wives, sisters and children of the missing men clustered in a quiet, tearful group as close to the pithead as they could.

It was a scene all too familiar in Nova Scotia coal towns after a mine accident.

10,000 In Peace Police

Canada Might Provide Infantry Battalion

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has in mind an international UN police force of 10,000 men to patrol the borders between Israel and the Arab states, a high government source said today.

The source here said the Canadian government thinks a force of some 10,000 men would be "adequate" for this task.

But the source declined to say what contribution Canada would be prepared to make to such a force. Mr. Pearson said in the UN today Canada would be ready to contribute to an international force but did not specify numbers.

It was considered possible that the Canadian government might be willing to provide an infantry battalion—some 900 men.

The question of an international police force in Palestine has had a sad history in the UN.

Former UN secretary-general Trygve Lie tried to stimulate interest in such a force and after the Korean War some consideration was given to it. However, there was not much enthusiasm among UN members for the proposal. Canada contributed an infantry brigade group, three destroyers and a transport squadron to the UN side in the Korean War.

The proposal by Mr. Pearson in the UN goes farther than any other Canadian suggestion in this field.

Up to now, the Canadian government has advocated only strengthening of the UN truce observers teams in Palestine under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa. About a dozen Canadians are members of the non-combatant observer teams.

IN COMMAND—General Sir Charles Keightley, 55, commander-in-chief of the Middle East land forces since 1953, is in overall command of the joint Anglo-French task force in the Suez Canal area.

CANADA PLAN MAJOR TOPIC Three-Man UN Board To Study 'Cease Fire'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld today appointed a three-man committee to check on compliance with the General Assembly's Middle East cease-fire resolution and ordered it to make its first report by 6 p.m.

His action came soon after an unprecedented emergency meeting of the assembly overwhelmingly approved a cease-fire proposal during the early morning hours.

The Hammarskjöld group comprises United Nations Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, who negotiated the Israeli-Arab cease-fire in 1949, Undersecretary Ilya Tshernychev, senior Soviet official in the UN, and Constantine A. Stavropoulos, UN legal counsel.

A major topic of discussion in UN circles was Canada's suggestion for establishment of a UN military force to guard the Egyptian-Israeli border.

CANADA KEEPS HISTORIC ROLE

Moderates in Cabinet Block Split With U.K.

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE,
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Moderate elements in the cabinet have prevailed, enabling this country to continue, at the United Nations General Assembly now in emergency session, Canada's familiar intermediary role of striving to resolve the differences between the United States and the United Kingdom over the Middle East crisis.

Hon. L. B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, has set out Canada's position at the UN.

(1)—This country favors the creation of a world military force to keep the peace in Palestine.

(2)—Canada is pressing for an international conference to be called to consider how best to bring about a settlement of the crisis. At such a conference Canada would work to bring the English-speaking world together again.

When Mr. Pearson left Ottawa Thursday he rushed away from a cabinet meeting still in session to catch his plane for New York. The cabinet was wrestling with the position it should take in respect to the British-French armed intervention in the Egyptian-Israeli dispute.

SHOCKED DISMAY

There was a group in the cabinet that had reacted with shocked dismay to be followed by indignation over the British action in moving its forces into the Middle East. This group had favored at first branding the Arabs as aggressors.

A more moderate element of

Ground Forces Poised; Egypt Air Force Beaten

LONDON (CP)—British and French forces tonight were poised for the invasion of the Suez Canal zone.

The French defence ministry announced the invasion was imminent even as French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau flew to London for an emergency conference with Prime Minister Eden.

The Associated Press reported an authoritative British source said they were working on plans to turn over the policing of the Egyptian battle zone to the United Nations once the Suez zone has been secured by Britain and France.

Tuesday Deadline

Eden and his foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, conferred with Pineau on the terms of a declaration that an authoritative source said would reject the United Nations call for an immediate cease-fire.

Instead, sources said, the declaration will announce Anglo-French willingness to hand over control of the Suez area to an international force under UN control.

The Anglo-French timetable is said to call for the completion of military operations against Egypt no later than next Tuesday.

The Associated Press reported the two allies hope by that time Egyptian President Nasser will be overthrown and his government replaced by one willing to negotiate.

Allied paratroopers and supporting forces were ready to pounce on the Suez Canal zone.

The softening-up stage for the invasion was declared officially over night with crippling blows to the Egyptian air force.

A French communiqué said "aerial and naval operations henceforth will aim at realizing the conditions necessary for temporary occupation of the canal zone."

A senior Royal Air Force spokesman here said the air raids were aimed at the destruction of Egypt's air force which included 80 British Meteors and Vampires, about 100 Communist MIG fighters and 50 Soviet Ilyushin jet bombers.

Israel's ambassador to Britain, Eliahu Elath, said his country's military operations against Egypt apparently are coming to a conclusion.

Eden Speaks Saturday

The House of Commons was told Eden will make a statement Saturday on the UN call for a cease-fire in the Middle East after consultations with Pineau. Laborites said they want the government to agree to the UN demand.

A spokesman at Israeli army headquarters in Tel Aviv reported the surrender of Gaza city, Egyptian headquarters for the Gaza strip, after a tank-led Israeli task force smashed into the city.

The surrender put the entire strip in Israeli hands and ended a 24-hour fight for the region. Israeli troops Thursday captured Rafa, the only other major centre in the strip.

The air ministry in London said RAF heavy and medium bombers today were keeping up their non-stop strikes against the Egyptian air bases.

"None of our aircraft has been reported missing," a British spokesman said.

The communiqué said an Egyptian blockade ship attacked by bombers on Thursday had been moved downstream after the attack into a position "partially blocking the canal."

Canal Closed

In London, Fuel Minister Aubrey Jones said in a speech today that the canal had been temporarily closed, with no ships passing through today. But "it will certainly be the government's intention to see that any closing is as short as possible."

The communiqué said 355 effective sorties were flown from British aircraft carriers and an unreported number by French naval aircraft. Seventy-one Egyptian aircraft were claimed destroyed and 50 damaged in these strikes.

In Paris, a spokesman for the French defence ministry said 500 Egyptian planes were estimated to have been destroyed on the ground or damaged to such an extent that they would take a long time to repair.

The spokesman said: "We consider that the destruction of

Eden Refuses Bid To Halt Fighting

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden today held an emergency meeting of his cabinet and military advisers shortly before talking to French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau here about a United Nations resolution calling for a Middle East cease-fire.

Pineau flew over from Paris for urgent talks with British leaders on the resolution approved by the UN General Assembly Thursday night.

The House of Commons broke with tradition and decided to hold an emergency Saturday session to hear Eden's views on the UN resolution.

The opposition demanded that Eden tell the House that he accepts the resolution and that he will hold up any military action between now and Saturday's meeting. Eden replied, "I can give no such undertaking."

A government spokesman said the nature of Eden's statement on Saturday would depend entirely on the progress of his talks with Pineau. The prime minister told the th Egyptian Air Force has been completed.

The Israeli army spokesman reported that troops occupied most of the northern half of the Sinai Peninsula and that only a "battle of pockets" was taking place.

The spokesman said Egyptian forces in the northern Sinai were "fleeing westward to the Suez Canal to get away."

He added that "tens of thousands" of Egyptian troops, consisting of two divisions, an armored brigade "group" and auxiliary groups, had faced the Israelis in Sinai.

He conceded that some Israeli units closer to the canal were meeting stiffer resistance.

The spokesman did not reply when asked about the Israeli drive in the southern half of the Sinai Peninsula towards the Enterprise Channel—the narrow strait linking the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Egyptian gun positions commanding the channel have for years blocked Israeli ships from reaching the southern Israeli port of Eilat.

In Tel Aviv Thursday night the Israeli government declared that no war would be initiated against "any other neighboring state."

"If attacked by another Arab state, Israel will fight back. But she will not be the first to attack."

The Israeli embassy in Washington estimated Egyptian casualties—killed, wounded and captured—at 5,000. "Israeli casualties are relatively light," it added, "including less than 100 killed."

In Britain, the Labor movement launched a country-wide "stop the war" campaign, with the announcement of a massive rally in Trafalgar Square Sunday. Protest meetings also were called in a score of British cities.

In the United States President Eisenhower said Thursday night that his administration had chosen "a path of honor" in its stand against "armed aggression" by Israel, Britain and France. His Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson, said the Republican administration should have averted the Egyptian war.

The Egyptian fighting also had repercussions in the Far East. In Peking, Red China's capital, thousands of demonstrators converged on the British legation and shouted support for Egypt and anti-British slogans.

cept the resolution of the General Assembly.

"Only an unqualified statement of that kind will be sufficient to restore in any way the reputation of this country."

Eden refused at today's session to order a halt in military action until he had completed his study of the UN resolution. The Labor party then insisted on an emergency session Saturday to hear the prime minister's views.

The Commons has not held a Saturday session since 1949.

UPROAR RENEWED

Eden's refusal today to commit himself at once on the UN actions, touched off another angry scene in the House, with Labor members shouting for him to "resign."

Left-winger Aneurin Bevan, speaking as one of the Labor party's recognized leaders, told Eden:

"The vast majority of the UN Assembly has condemned our action in being at war. It is going to be extremely difficult for many of us to restrain action in the country. Will not the government help us a bit?"

"If Parliament as a forum of popular expression is to be denied an opportunity of considering this grave matter, what answer have we got for people outside?"

Denis Healey, Labor, asked amid cheers from the Opposition and shouts of protest from the government benches: "What is the parliamentary expression which comes closest to expressing the meaning of the word 'liar'?"

(Use of the word "liar" is forbidden by the rules of the House.)

The government's victory on the vote of censure served only to increase the virulence of a wide section of the British press in its attacks on Eden and his Middle East policy.

Mr. Pearson according to reports from the UN said that the Canadian government would be prepared to participate in a UN international police force to keep the peace in Palestine, if such a force was authorized.

Big question is what position Communist Russia would take if the UN police force proposal is placed before the UN for action.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in serious conversation at the White House during a conference Wednesday on the Middle East crisis.

Eden Wins Confidence Vote After Uproar in U.K. Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Eden Thursday night won a vote of confidence for his armed intervention in the Middle East.

In a rowdy session of Parliament that was suspended at one stage because of disorder, Eden's government defeated an opposition Labor censure motion by 324 votes to 255, a majority of 69.

A government counter-motion asking approval of its decision to send forces against Egypt was carried by 323 votes to 255, a majority of 68.

The House voted first on the Labor motion which deplored the government's "resort to armed force" against Egypt and accused it of violating the United Nations charter, affronting a large section of the British people, dividing the Commonwealth, straining the North Atlantic Alliance, and "gravely damaging the foundations of international order."

While the voting was going on, mounted police outside the Houses of Parliament dispersed several hundred people demonstrating against the government.

"The crowd shouted slogans such as 'We want peace.' Many were overseas students studying at British universities."

In the House of Commons a Labor member rose to say: "Mounted police are charging into people outside. A young woman has been nearly crushed by a horse and a young man going to her rescue has been beaten up by several policemen."

Amid uproar, Mrs. Bessie Bradgock, Labor, pointed at government ministers declaring: "Every one of you can be branded a murderer."

During the debate Eden stood firm on his action against Egypt in face of a

Mr. MacMillan described withholding of diplomatic recognition as an emotional matter.

Maritime Mine Deaths Total 1,600 Since 1900—Gas Deadliest Killer

Blocking the way of rescue crews is a pile of fallen rock at the 3,300-foot level down the sloping shaft from the surface.

The Springhill mine, one of the deepest in the country, has lower workings more than 6,000 feet from the surface.

Hope for survivors lay in the possibility the missing were in these depths. No one knew how long they could last if their air supply had failed.

Early today an exhausted rescue crew stumbled to the surface to report they found two bodies 3,400 feet below ground level but saw no sign of life.

"It looks bad, boys, mighty bad—yes, mighty bad," one veteran miner said.

"Pretty grim" was all the leader of one rescue crew would say.

Almost every family in this town of 7,000 had a relative in the mine.

As the hours passed with no word of survivors, fear mounted that this would be Canada's worst mine disaster since 1914, when 193 were killed at Hillcrest, Alta.

At 4 a.m. (1 a.m. PST) there was a glimmer of hope.

The draegermen—famous mine-rescue crews of Nova Scotia coalfields—pushed a valved air pipe through rubble thousands of feet underground. Fresh air began to circulate.

A fireman said the valve might have been broken by the fallen rock—but that a survivor behind the fall might possibly have turned it on.

RESCUE WORKERS DIE

The explosion that rumbled through Springhill at 5 p.m. on Thursday came from the slope of No. 4 colliery of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company. It plastered the mine surface with the rubble of wrecked buildings and machinery.

The company's No. 2 pit, only yards away, was covered with debris but all its miners escaped.

Body of one man, killed in the blast, was hurled several hundred yards. Four others died within hours from their injuries.

At 2:50 a.m. a rescue crew found two bodies at the 3,400-foot level—the area where most of the trapped men had been working.

ARMY AIDS RESCUERS

As a bleak dawn spread over the minehead desolation in this town near the Nova Scotia-New Brunswick border, automobiles formed an arc around the pits, waiting to serve as ambulances if survivors were located.

First-aid workers and all available nurses, regulars and volunteers, stood by hospital beds that spread from wards into halls and a nearby armory. Extra doctors had been flown to Springhill. Blood plasma and other medical supplies came from all the Maritime provinces in RCAF planes and navy helicopters. Army troops joined volunteer rescue workers.

But only the highly trained draegermen, wearing oxygen equipment, entered the dangerous, gas-filled shaft.

125 KILLED IN 1891

The explosion was not the first time Springhill has faced disaster. In 1891, another accident in the mines killed 125.

A crew of draegermen left Stellarton, N.S., by plane for the scene. Another group flew from Cape Breton. Cars lighted airport runways for night landings. Headlights of others lit the ball park where a navy helicopter landed a doctor and supplies.

Highway convoys of first aid workers, other volunteers and more supplies sped to the scene. Through the night lights burned in almost every home.

It was some time before the names of the trapped miners became known.

Premier Hicks of Nova Scotia and R. L. Stanfield, elected to succeed him in last Tuesday's provincial general election, were among the crowd at the mine entrance early today.

BLASTS ALWAYS FEARED

Gas explosions in the Springhill mine have always been feared because of the pit's recognized high gas content and memories of the 1891 blast.

The mine angles 6,700 feet into the grounds. Ventilation pipes usually carry fresh air to all sections of the weaving tunnels. No. 4 mine is joined underground to the nearby No. 2, at a point where there are explosion doors. It was not known whether these doors were used in rescue attempts.

The 25-year-old No. 4 colliery is tunnelled in under high hills and its main slope enters the depths on a 30-degree angle. Miners of both pits use this slope to reach their workings.

Draegerman Tells How 2 Pals Died

By HUGH DUNLOP
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—

I talked with Springhill draegerman Ed McCormick just after he came out of the blasted No. 4 colliery here early today. He and his buddy Fred Gagnicki are members of a five-man rescue squad.

"I was at home when I heard the explosion," he said. "I threw on my clothes and headed for the mine."

"I knew there was trouble. Within 20 minutes I had my gear ready and set to go."

"The five of us entered the mine together. There was some smoke but not a lot."

"Bill Ferguson, a draegerman in my crew, was only down 130 feet when he dropped from the effects of the gas."

"About the same time we found Benny Roy and Alex Spence unconscious. They're draegermen too."

"Benny is in hospital now. I hear he's in fairly good shape. Bill and Alex are dead."

'JUST LIKE ATOMIC BOMB' SAYS MINE BLAST EYEWITNESS

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (BUP)—"It was just like an atomic bomb," said 39-year-old Ed Cameron, eyewitness to the Springhill colliery explosion.

"The burst mushroomed up with one big bang. My brother was in the mine. Six-inch timbers were splintered to bits. The place was all in a mess."

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Explosion at the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company No. 4 colliery here is commonly known to miners as "fire-damp."

It is usually emitted by steam-coal producing mines such as No. 4. The emission is a mixture of marsh gas, nitrogen and minute quantities of carbonic acid.

Fire damp when mixed with four to 12 times its volume of atmospheric air is explosive. When the air mixture is lower, however, the gas usually burns.

Coal dust alone without any gas may cause a dangerous explosion.

Mr. Pearson Shows the Way

IN A WORLD CRISIS INDESCRIB-ably tragic and confused one constructive idea has emerged, and it has emerged from Ottawa. Mr. Pearson has proposed and the United States has instantly approved a practical United Nations settlement of the Suez crisis. Under Mr. Pearson's plan the United Nations would quickly assemble an international military force of 10,000 men and take over from Britain and France the task of occupying the Canal zone, separating the combatants, enforcing order and then negotiating a long-term settlement.

This should be the next logical step after the Assembly's decision last night to order Britain and France to cease their intervention. For that decision cannot be enforced unless some machinery is devised to replace Britain and France in the fighting zone. As often before, it is Mr. Pearson who devises a practical solution which should command the support of the entire world, including Britain and France. As Sir Anthony has said repeatedly, Britain and France will welcome the intervention of the United Nations whenever it is ready to take over the present police action.

If the Pearson plan is to succeed it must move fast. For the situation now prevailing in Suez—Britain and France fighting Egypt in defiance of the United Nations—will soon become intolerable. The next few days, or hours, will show whether the United Nations, having condemned Britain and France, is capable of providing an alternative to their policy.

Whether the other nations are ready to provide contributions to an international peace force remains to be seen. Canada certainly must be ready or Mr. Pearson would not have advanced his proposal. We are totally committed not only to the United Nations' decision as a general policy but to the specific project of a United Nations' army of occupation in the Canal zone. If this project fails the alternative is almost unthinkable.

Mr. Pearson's plan is the first real ray of light after these days of deepening dark. It comes at the moment when an overwhelming majority in the United Nations has demanded the withdrawal of Britain and France from Egypt and thus by implication condemned their policy as aggression. There is no blinking the fact that these two powers, for reasons that seem good to them, have alienated the opinion of mankind and virtually isolated themselves, for the moment, from most of their friends. No adjective is quite big enough to describe the tragedy of that division. It cuts through the community of the Western world, the alliance of the English-speaking peoples and the Commonwealth.

The long-run results of the United Nations' verdict can only be guessed. The immediate question is whether and how the mandate of the United Nations can be enforced. Because he realized that this question had not been answered Mr. Pearson refused to vote for or against the Assembly's vote of censure on Canada's closest friends, and abstained. At first sight his position was ambiguous but it was instantly clarified when he proposed to buttress an abstract resolution with a concrete act of peace enforcement.

It is both futile and destructive to lament the mistakes on all sides leading up to the present crisis. The supreme objective of Western statesmanship—the objective to which Mr. Pearson has given such powerful leadership—is to put the alliance of the free peoples together again after a shattering blow. Happily Mr. Eisenhower has seen that simple fact and, rising above the subtleties of Mr. Dulles, said last night that the alliance of Britain, the United States and France "will grow to new and greater strength."

That hope must never be abandoned and it has been suddenly illuminated and strengthened by Mr. Pearson's proposal.

The sovereign fact standing out in today's chaos is unmistakable: The United Nations has rendered a verdict, it has issued an order and it cannot allow that order to be disregarded for long without admitting its impotence and abandoning its power in the world. Mr. Pearson has shown the United Nations how its writ can run.

Dissension in the Ranks

ONE OF THE BY-PRODUCTS OF recent upheavals in the communist empire is the turmoil that has beset the Labor Progressive Party in Canada. Reports indicate that the communists of this country are split over the question of the changing Russian Communist Party line.

Four members of the national executive recently quit the Canadian party. One source says that "hundreds" have left the party within recent months, and that leader Tim Buck will not last long.

Much of the dissension arose over the Moscow anti-Stalinist line which Khrushchev inaugurated. This abrupt switch was too much for some of the old-line stalwarts in Canada. But other causes of discontent have also been noted.

Mr. J. B. Salsberg, the prominent Ontario communist who for 12 years sat in the Ontario legislature, has lately been outspoken in his criticism of the Soviet attitude toward the Jews. A Jew himself, he has been joined by others who dislike the Moscow line in this regard.

All this, of course, must be typical of the situation in communist circles in other western countries. In countries such as France and Italy, where the Marxists had attracted larger followings, the internal party confusion must be all the greater.

There was a time when dyed-in-the-wool communists could be expected to stomach almost any action by Russia. But now that the party stalwarts are divided by a right-about-face in the Kremlin itself, there is no one to lead the sheep, black or otherwise.

Leadership can be imperilled even in an organization in which independent thinking has been outlawed. The Canadian communists at the moment present the classic spectacle of a chicken with its head cut off.

Keep After Them

CITIZENS OF THIS COMMUNITY have read reports on Halloween damage and hoodlums. They have noted accounts of two cars being set afire, of windows being broken and other vandalism.

They can find scant reason to condone such incidents as a mere display of youthful high spirits.

Among the activities of a minority of older youths on Wednesday night were certain violations of the law. It doesn't matter whether they occurred on Oct. 31 or any other date. They are still violations of the law and they should be treated as such.

The youths, male and female, who took it upon themselves to destroy property should certainly be taught that they cannot cover their exploits with the blanket description of pranks and forget about them as soon as Halloween is over.

The course for law enforcement agencies is clear. They should spare no effort in running down culprits who have committed offenses and take what legal action is justified against them.

A continuing campaign to take into custody those who misused Halloween could have a highly effective influence on those young people so mentally unstable that they think the last night in October is an occasion for lawlessness.

Preserving the Green Space

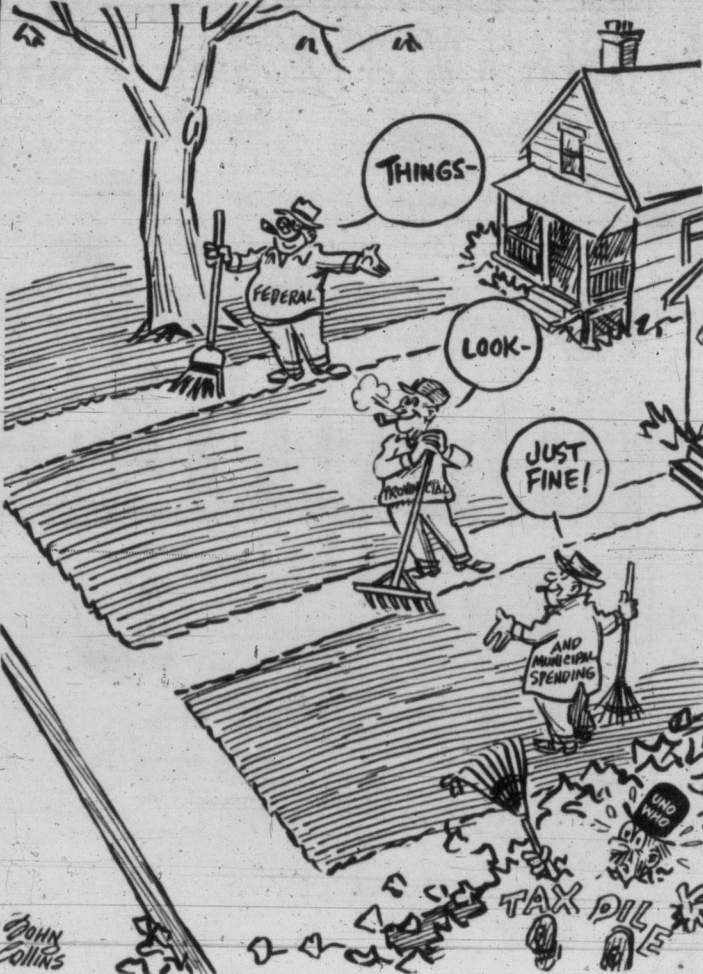

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT A PUBLIC park will be created on the south side of Christ Church Cathedral as soon as construction equipment has been removed from around the towers will be welcomed in Victoria. The stretch of fine trees and grass will make a valuable addition to the city's open spaces and serve to balance Pioneer Square which so long has been a favored spot to the north of the Cathedral.

In this connection, planners of a court house or other public building for the old cathedral property lying between Quadra and Blanshard Streets might well keep in mind the desirability of sufficient green space around such a structure, in order to harmonize with the character of one of the pleasantest sections of the city.

The fact that the area is only a moment's walk from the busy downtown section makes the park plan particularly attractive. The Cathedral authorities are to be congratulated on their foresight.

Music From the Depths

ONE of the laws of life is that you have to pay for everything you get, in one way or another. There is a counter-balance to the good things we receive, and there is a counter-balance to the bad things that happen to us.

Since this is an era of great material prosperity for most of us—a world of abundance in food, shelter and comfort, it is natural that there should be some counteracting factors to even things out. One of the factors that helps to offset our good fortune and remind us that life cannot be all pleasure is the jukebox.

In its way the jukebox is a masterpiece. I suppose we should admire perfection in whatever form we find it, and the jukebox is certainly perfect in concept.

It is difficult to imagine what could possibly be done to it to make it worse to look at or worse to hear. If it had a smell or a taste I'm sure these aspects of it would be of the same order.

Tobin

their offerings at each one, and going on strengthened and enriched by their experience.

But what will be the end result of a constant diet of this dim thumping? Will the human ear deteriorate until, like a failing eye that can perceive only a vague difference between light and shadow, it will hear musical instruments only as booming rumbles, human voices only as hollow grunts?

It is said that if you cover the lower half of a line of printed words you will still be able to read them, and that they will be more legible with the lower half covered than with the upper half invisible. That seems to be the reverse of the principle on which the jukebox works. With the jukebox they cover the upper half of the range of tones you could hear, and all you get is the bass.

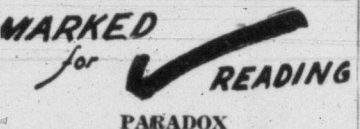

Why this is done, nobody seems to know. It is just accepted as a natural phenomenon that jukebox music should be an unintelligible moaning. No one demands that a cow should moan; why ask more of a jukebox?

Canned Tunes

It is perhaps typical of our era that so many should be satisfied with this substitute for song. We have processed most of the things we like to eat so that you have a choice of fresh or canned peas, soup, fish or peaches. The jukebox is the canning process carried to its ultimate conclusion.

It is canned music—and a product far less worthy than canned food. It has lost its flavor, its zest, its natural juices and its nourishment.

Why it is so popular must be a secret only the jukebox knows. Can it be that its devotees are likewise short on taste? If only that thump-thump-thumping would stop for a moment I might be able to find an answer.

It's a strange paradox, the English theatre. The Government consider it, like all the arts, unimportant. The average Englishman is apathetic towards it, or likes it in its crude forms; playwrights find it difficult to get their plays put on; the vast majority of actors are out of work. And yet, when future generations look back to England today it may seem like a golden-age in the theatre—the age of the poet-playwrights, T. S. Eliot and Christopher Fry; the age of the glorious actors—Sir John Gielgud, Sir Laurence Olivier, Michael Redgrave, Alec Guinness, Dame Edith Evans, Dame Peggy Ashcroft. No, England doesn't seem to care about her theatre—but oddly enough it does flourish.

As Our Readers See It

Supporting Britain

The editorial attack on Great Britain by such newspapers as the Vancouver Herald may mislead other parts of Canada, the Commonwealth and the United States into believing that this thought represents the people of British Columbia.

Any move which would deprive Great Britain of oil could quickly result in mass unemployment, reduced exports and a lower standard of living, conditions which would not only affect the British but would affect us here in Canada as well as throughout the Commonwealth. Most of the oil consumed in Great Britain passes through the Suez Canal and when, without regard for past treaties or international law, Nasser seized it, the economic life of Britain was at the mercy of a despot who has never tried to hide his contempt for the British.

Last Sunday Israel, having been publicly warned by Nasser that she would be exterminated in due course, having been under constant attack by murder squads of Egyptians with Communist guns, moved into Egypt to destroy the bases from which these suicide patrols operated.

The forces of Israel moved through regular Egyptian army forces, who were armed to the teeth with the latest Communist weapons, and two days later were within twenty miles of the Suez Canal. Egyptians outnumber Israelis twenty to one. What else could Britain and France do other than to occupy the Suez Canal area in self-protection?

The United Nations had already proved its ineffectiveness some years ago when Egypt brusquely refused repeated U.N. requests to allow Israeli ships to use the free and international waterway.

Those people in this country who back Britain should say that they do. There are three effective ways to make your opinion felt: First, stand up for Great Britain and be willing to explain your stand. Second, write a postcard to your federal member of parliament and tell him that it is your wish that he back Britain on the Suez question. Third, write a postcard or letter to Sir Anthony Eden, prime minister of Great Britain, at 10 Downing Street, London, Eng., and tell him that you back Britain—help him to confound his Labor critics who say that he stands alone.

We enjoy the Times. There are some good columns in it and we also have a nice boy delivering it. He puts it on the porch when it rains.

I also enjoy letters to the editor. One writer takes up a lot of space with her letters both to the Times and the Colonist. We should have another paper she states. She does not like the British or Royalty. She forgets that when this was a colony it was mostly British and there are still a lot of British here—English, Irish, Scots and Welsh.

We may have our own little spats, but in time of trouble like any large family we all stick together. We all love the Isles.

Gambling and Gambling

Mr. W. H. Golby, Chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, according to an item in tonight's Times states that at the next meeting of the board a resolution will be passed to support the Mayor in his efforts to ban pinball machines in Victoria. Mr. Golby stated "these machines are morally wrong and detrimental to the youth of the community."

I support Mr. Golby both in the proposed action of the School Board and in his statement, but I would like to ask him if different gambling games conducted in the building and on the grounds of the Central Junior High School within recent months are not also detrimental to the youth of the community?

As a fairly heavy taxpayer in Victoria and the municipalities wherein the Greater Victoria School Board has juris-dition I strongly object to the leasing of school property for any form of gambling, and I also claim that it is an insult to the citizens to allow loud speakers to disturb the peace of the neighboring households while these gambling games are in progress, especially as these grounds are not zoned for commercial use.

Pedestrian Crossings

Florence G. Barr's appeal that pedestrian crossings be provided at the Veterans Hospital is well taken.

For a year now we have several times complained, by letters and telephone, of the insufficient and inefficient traffic lights at the Oak Bay Junction in so far as the pedestrian is concerned. Also from Belmont Avenue to Fernwood Road on Pandora there is not a single pedestrian crossing. We have been told for a year that the matter is receiving consideration.

Surely it does not take that long to see the necessity for pedestrian crossings on such a busy arterial. Stadacona Park and the junction of Begbie and Pandora make this whole section extremely dangerous especially for an older person wishing to cross. I know of several older folks who simply will not attempt, either at Oak Bay Junction or Pandora Avenue, to cross.

See a Little Clearer

In my recent mail from a friend in New Zealand I found the following:

"O God! that man would see a little clearer.

Or judge less harshly where they cannot see.

O God! that men would draw a little nearer.

They'd be nearer Thee; and understood."

This is the final verse of a poem of seven verses, and so impressed me with its breadth and universal application, that I could not keep it to myself. Posted in every home the world's problems, domestic and national, would be better understood and consequently less difficult of solution.

The author is Thos. Bracken (New Zealand).

Indestructible

Midst all the seeming tremendous happenings between nations, sects, castes, creeds and individuals, the one dominant factor persists and is beyond human power to destroy.

In all the millions of human beings crawling around on this planet there is not one of us able to escape its share in the vastness of indestructible "mind." Our idea of strength in numbers and our ability to destroy each other is at its best a human myth, a false idea, no matter how seemingly rich in worldly knowledge the self appointed human demigods appear to be; these fools are a laughing-stock to the many thinkers and knowers of the "truth of being" standing on the sidelines watching the parade go past.

Worry in the Home

For the last 35 years, younger people have been steadily robbed of all personal feeling of responsibility for the welfare of their elderly relatives and now we see the result.

As to home life, Dr. L. E. Ranta tells the Victoria University Association with regard to mental patients that "hospital services, including welfare, psycho-therapist, physiotherapist, and medical health officers) must be extended into the home, on the understanding that the majority of mental patients are best treated in familiar surroundings."

This is a grand way to introduce worry into homes which might otherwise be happy or peaceful.

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

End of the Post-War World

OUR TRUE interest, it seems to me, is that in the satellite orbit Titoism should prevail without external political or military interference, and that the national governments be assisted economically to develop in their own way. This is our true interest because with Titoism in Poland and, let us hope, in Czechoslovakia also, Eastern Europe cannot be used as a base for military aggression against Western Europe. The security of the West will be radically improved.

It is our true interest, also, to have Titoism among the satellite alternatives is incalculably dangerous. One alternative would be a Soviet decision to reimpose Stalinism. This would mean fearful bloodshed, and enormous danger of a European war into which we might well be sucked. The other alternative would be a spreading rebellion which went beyond Titoism and engulfed it.

If such a rebellion were to spread to Eastern Germany, as it might well do, it would almost certainly mean that some way or other Western Germany would be sucked into the conflict.

True Interest

If our true interest is that Eastern Europe, and particularly the key country Poland, should become independent, regain national liberty, but should not actually break irreparably with the Soviet Union, then there are two main lines of policy which we should take.

The one line is by diplomatic measures to convince the Russians that their security will not be threatened by an independent Poland. It may be that in this connection the discussion of a general European security pact ought to be renewed.

The other line of policy is to make available to Poland, not only from the United States but from Western Europe as well, enough economic assistance to see Poland through the crisis of readjustment which lies ahead.

Poland will be emerging from its status as a Soviet colony, and this will involve a difficult readjustment. We ought to give much thought not only to what economic aid will be needed but also to the question of how it will be given, whether by us directly or by some kind of international agency.

Two Centres

We are living in great days. For we are witnessing the dissolution of the international structure of the post-war world. The armistices of Second World War, which have never become a peace settlement, left the world with two great centres of power—the one in Moscow and the other in Washington. The armistice lines of 1945, excepting only in China, became the political and ideological frontiers of the two worlds, and behind them two great coalitions were organized.

This post-war structure has been breaking down on both sides of the dividing line, and in the past two years at a rapidly rising tempo. We have become increasingly aware that the power and influence of the Western nations is declining. Now we are seeing the same essential process inside the Soviet orbit.

The break up of any order, even so obviously provisional an order as that of the post-war era, is bound to mean widespread disorder—as witness the disorders in Hungary, in Algeria, in Cyprus, in Palestine and in Singapore.

What we must do is to keep in mind, a good part of the time no doubt in the back of our minds, the central idea that an order of things is dissolving and that a new order to follow it is now waiting to be conceived, and then brought into being.

Our Guests—Canada's Best

TOMMY WALKER, Canada's Olympic swim coach, is a little thinner on top than he was 24 years ago. He seems about as lean in the middle and he has changed his grin for a smile of understanding.

Stott

In 1932 he took Canada's girl swimmers to the Los Angeles Olympics. He showed his ability there and is still showing it.

The intervening years have matured him—partly through an administrative hitch in the air force overseas during the war—have failed to shake his devotion to coaching and, if possible, have made him a little more Canadian.

You watch him at the Crystal Garden supervising the girls and boys who will swim for Canada in Australia. There's the same meticulous attention to detail about him, the same firmness, which isn't hardness, and the same encouragement.

He's the kind of man who inspires your confidence—the type you're quite happy to see in charge of an important contingent of the Canadian team—and he has significant backing here too. Archie McKinnon, veteran of Olympic coaching experience, likes and approves him. Archie's in a position to judge.

MATTER OF IDEALS

You have to know a fair amount about the technical side of swimming—more than I know—to appreciate the job Tommy's doing with the team as it rounds into shape here for the long flight. You don't have to be a technician to appreciate his attitude.

The coach is pleased with the team. He thinks its members will be a credit to Canada not only as swimmers. And he has some pretty definite ideas about how Canadian athletes should be developed.

The country could do more to advance swimming, he believes, by showing greater interest in the sport. But the last thing he wants is a state-subsidized scheme that picks candidates, takes them away from life and makes swimming machines of them.

Canadians, he points out, are human beings.

ings, not robots. They won't become automatons under his hands.

These are very special humans. Beyond proving their ability in the water, they've undergone extensive scientific testing. Their health factors have been put under a microscope and their training routines have been laid down. But they're individuals.

It's part of Tommy's job to recognize them as such. That's why he acquired their histories and idiosyncrasies from coaches of the clubs from which they came. Those differences are given special attention, though there's no discrimination among team members.

SOMETHING TO ENJOY

And while he points them toward their swimming peaks, he tries to remind them of a few ideals he holds himself. His job and career have been swimming. He is dedicated to amateurism. Like a lot of others, he's a pro with a full appreciation of the game for the sake of the game. When swimming ceases to be fun to his charges, he doesn't think they ought to stay with it.

Not that he lets them avoid training, or go skylarking while they're working out. But he expects them to enjoy the work. It's part of his business—as he sees it—to make sure they do.

Whenever he has the chance, he reminds them they're swimming for Canada. Representing Canada, to his mind, is an honor they should never forget.

You gather from the team that its members appreciate his outlook.

And how does he like the arrangements made for the crew here? Couldn't be better, he'll tell you. Everywhere there has been co-operation. If one person has given more co-operation than another, it has been Archie. The pool's right for swimming, the Y gym provides good space for calisthenics. The accommodation's swell.

Tommy would like Victoria to know that. Probably he'll say it a week tomorrow when the team is scheduled to give a public exhibition at the Crystal Garden. In addition to demonstrations, some of the individual swimmers may race against local relay teams. It should be something to see, and the proceeds will go to help Canada's swimmers meet expenses on the long trip.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Prevention of Rabies

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Many persons must have read some weeks ago of the plight of the little girl who was bitten by a dog, which later disappeared and could not be found. It is a tragedy when a dog that has bitten someone is allowed to get away. The question is, was it mad or was it not? The doctors cannot just wait to see if the person comes down with rabies because when the disease appears, it is fatal. Some may ask, "But why not just give the Pasteur treatment?" Because this is not pleasant to take, and there are cases in which it does harm. In this particular case, the little girl proved to be so allergic to the vaccine injected that it could hardly be used. Fortunately, during the past year another effective type of treatment has been found.

Dr. Alvarez

I hope now that the millions of people who read about that little girl will remember that when anyone is bitten by a stray dog, some bystander should try to follow the animal and keep it in sight until a dog-catcher can be called to come and get it. Then it can be watched for a few days to see if it is mad, or it can be killed and a part of its brain can be examined for the Negri bodies which are so diagnostic of rabies.

In a recent article, Drs. Morris W. Rosenthal and C. W. Daeschner, Jr., wrote that some 80 per cent of rabid dogs have what is called furious rabies, recognizable by a change in the animal's disposition. The animal may become overly irritable and hostile, or he may refuse food, or he may hide under the bed, or for a while he may be overly affectionate. Later, he will become restless and agitated and finally homicidal. Then he will snap at anyone who comes near. Usually the animal dies within seven or 10 days after the onset of the illness.

If a person is bitten by a mad animal and is not treated, he is likely to get hydrophobia (rabies) in about 30 days, if the bite was on the head and face, and in about two months if the bite was on a leg. The length of the interval depends partly on the amount of virus that was deposited in the wound. Deep or extensive lacerations, and bites on the head and face are the most dangerous ones.

It is sad that because of the strong opposition of those millions of persons who fight all health measures and all measures that have to do with animals, in the U.S. they have not wiped out rabies as was done in Great Britain. If every dog in the U.S. were to be vaccinated against rabies, and then if every dog being brought in from a foreign land were to be quarantined, there would soon be but little trouble from rabies. That little would come from wild animals, such as skunks, coyotes and foxes.

PEOPLE WITH QUEER IDEAS

It is remarkable how many people there are who get queer ideas, and then cling to them in spite of everything they may hear to the contrary. For instance, I just saw the prospectus of a book by a man who is sure that aluminum pots are very dangerous to the health of users. If, before writing, he had phoned to his physician or his druggist he would have learned that today the common drug used for the treatment of ulcer is a preparation of aluminum. Every year each patient with ulcer swallows several pounds of the powdered material. As anyone can easily see, the amount of aluminum one can get off a pot during cooking might not be visible if placed on the head of a pin. Obviously, that amount or a thousand times that amount cannot possibly do any harm.

Government health officials have pointed out again and again that there is nothing to this silly idea, but still it lives on lustily, and one hears of it wherever one goes.

NEW DRUGS TESTED ON SMALL FISH

There is a type of fighting Siamese small fish that are constantly going after each other. When a small amount of one of the new tranquilizing drugs is dropped into their tank, they calm down and behave themselves. This reaction provides a simple, cheap and quick method of picking out a tranquilizer from a group of drugs that have just been synthesized.

A read now that guppies can be used in testing drugs. As Drs. Doris L. Keller and Wayne M. Umbreit recently reported, the fish can be placed first in water which contains a trace of lysergic acid diethylamide, a substance which can cause volunteers who take it to be psychotic for a few hours. This causes the fish to keep swimming against the wall of the container in a peculiar "vibrating" way. This type of behavior can be stopped by adding a tranquilizing drug to the water. Later, when given more of the lysergic acid, the fish swim backward.

The effects of other drugs on the fish are now being studied, and from such work much is being learned about the chemistry of the brain and how the new tranquilizing drugs work.

Hockey Idol
On Ballet Tour

TORONTO (CP) — When the National Ballet Company leaves next week on its sixth annual tour, an autographed picture of hockey idol "Rocket" Richard will be tucked away among the 2½ baggage cars of costumes and scenery.

Artistic director Celia Franca, an ardent hockey fan, needs it to restore her perspective.

Immersed for many months in plans for the company's largest tour yet, Miss Franca says she believes that if a person gets too involved in any one thing, she can lose her sense of values.

ACTIVE SUPERVISOR

Every phase of this season's 17-week tour of 50 Canadian and U.S. cities, to open Monday in Hamilton, will have the elfin-faced, director's touch. To the dancers the tour will be a reward for weeks of grueling rehearsals. But to Miss Franca it will be something of an anti-climax.

Although she is to dance in eight of the 16 ballets to be presented she has already surmounted a variety of problems. She has drawn up a program which she believes will satisfy all tastes. It includes classical, dramatic, comedy, jazz and Spanish dances.

BIG OPERATION

When the tour takes off it will be not unlike a mass migration for the company. The 37 dancers and 33 orchestra members will be accompanied by nearly 800 costumes, 3,600 pounds of electrical equipment including 11,000 feet of electrical cable, 200 pieces of scenery, 20 backdrops, 500 pairs of pointe shoes as well as numerous "character" shoes and soft slippers and musical instruments.

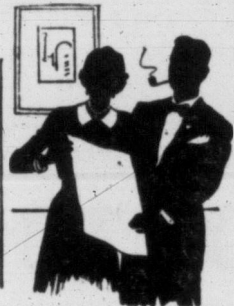

Nor can Miss Franca look forward to an end to worries once the tour's begun. There may be difficulty moving scenery and equipment—the trains may be late—a vigilant eye must be kept on the welfare of the younger dancers.

To keep her head level on her shoulders Miss Franca says she needs a refreshing diversion. "I can't get too involved and keep my sense of values," she said in an interview. "We've got to realize there are others on this earth doing good work, including the Rocket."

A fan of all hockey but not of all players—she reserves her admiration only for those who excel—Miss Franca gets a special bit of inspiration from the inscription on the Rocket's photograph.

It says: "to Celia Franca—the go-getter of the National Ballet."

MILE-LONG ROSEDALE BRIDGE

Gaglardi Wins Bets Gets Wheeled Across

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi won a bet when the $4,000,000 Agassiz-Rosedale Bridge was officially opened.

Payoff was a wheelbarrow ride for Mr. Gaglardi across the mile-long bridge. Earl Brett of Chilliwack supplied the manpower.

Mr. Gaglardi said Mr. Brett wisecracked two years ago that "Mr. Gaglardi will never build a bridge." The highways minister continued:

"I said he would have to wheel me across if the bridge was built, so I'm here to collect."

He was the first of several hundred to cross the bridge without charge. Tolls went on at midnight Wednesday.

B.C. Road Deaths Head for Record

Traffic fatalities in British Columbia are heading for an all-time high this year, a spokesman for the B.C. motor vehicles branch said today.

To the end of September, 214 persons had been killed in accidents, an increase of 66 over the first nine months of 1955.

"This indicates there will be a death toll of more than 300 before the year is out," the spokesman said. "The highest death toll on record was in 1953 when 225 persons were killed on our highways." In September, 35 persons were killed in road accidents. If this figure is repeated in October, November and December the total will be 319 by the end of the year.

Persons sustaining injuries in accidents numbered 612 in September, compared with 499 a year ago.

Property damage during September was estimated at $1,077,082—an increase of $329,456 over September last year.

Accidents from January to September, this year numbered 16,330, a rise of 1,653 over the corresponding period in 1955.

Alarmed by the increasing slaughter on B.C. highways, the provincial government has prepared a safe-driving directive which will be sent to every motorist in the province before the end of the month.

CANADIAN LEADS RAID ON EGYPTIAN AIRFIELD

VALLETTA, Malta (AP)—The first operation against military airfields in Egypt Wednesday was carried out by a squadron of Valentines commanded by Canadian-born Wing Cmdr. W. J. Burnett, air headquarters here announced Thursday night.

Describing the operation, Burnett—who comes from Fredericton, N.B., and has 19 years' service in the RAF—said: "Our target was the airfield at El Maza between Cairo and Heliopolis."

Burnett, 40, said the Valentines made two runs over El Maza before their first bombing run. Canberra marker aircraft had previously dropped flares which were spotted on the intersection of runways.

"Conditions were ideal for the attack and we recorded all our bombs in the target area," said the ex-Maritime. "There was a certain amount of firing from light anti-aircraft guns but it seemed erratic."

RED TANKS MENACE BUDAPEST

Giant New Russ Attack Against Hungary Rebels

VIENNA (Reuters)—Reports reaching here today said the Soviet army in Hungary is mounting a full-scale offensive to wipe out Hungarian revolutionary forces.

Their attack appears to be directed towards Budapest. Soviet troops units, including strong armored forces, were reported pouring into Hungary from Russia and Romania, with strong armored units also poised on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian frontier.

Soviet forces were also said to be assaulting the towns of Miskolc, Tokay, Szolnok and Debrecen in eastern Hungary.

Budapest Radio announced total mobilization of the Hungarian army, and the military revolutionary councils ordered introduction of the blackout.

REPORT BLOODY BATTLES

The reports spoke of bombing attacks by Soviet air force units on revolutionary strongholds, and "bloody battles" in eastern Hungary.

Strength of one Soviet drive towards Budapest from the south was estimated at two full armored divisions. The revolutionary forces were believed to have about the equivalent of one armored division in the capital.

Soviet airborne troops were said to have landed at an unidentified airfield.

Some reports said that "all Hungarian airfields were in Russian hands." But other reports spoke of Soviet bombing raids on Hungarian-held airfields.

The families of Soviet diplomatic officials in Budapest were sent away from the city by ship down the Danube late Thursday, and a French correspondent said the Soviet embassy in Budapest looked as though it is "in a state of war."

As the demand of Premier Nagy to the Soviet ambassador for the withdrawal of Russian troops was being broadcast, long columns of Hungarian tanks and troop carriers rumbled through the streets towards the city's outskirts.

RCAF Delivers Medical Aid

VIENNA (CP)—An RCAF North Star delivered five tons of Canadian Red Cross supplies for Budapest Thursday night and immediately prepared to move on to Athens to evacuate non-combatants from the Middle East.

Ft. Lieut. Bill Lewis of Montreal and Edmonton had barely touched down at Vienna airport with his $40,000 shipment of medical equipment when Canadian Ambassador J. Scott MacDonald instructed him to prepare for his new assignment, bringing out dependents of United States citizens in the area of the Egypt-Israel fighting.

Meanwhile the supplies—penicillin, sulpha drugs, bandages and splints—were formally handed over to Dr. Guido Joubert, Vienna representative of the International Red Cross, for shipment to Budapest by truck.

U.S. Favors Pearson's Police Plan

Dulles Gives Support At Historic Session

By ROD CURRIE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — An emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly called early today for an immediate cease-fire in Egypt and then listened to a Canadian suggestion for establishment of a UN military force to guard the Egyptian-Israeli border.

External Affairs Minister Pearson termed the force a "truly international peace and police force" and said his government would recommend Canadian participation in such a UN force.

Pearson was obviously disappointed that the United States-sponsored cease-fire resolution was pushed through in one day. His suggested UN force won immediate U.S. support from State Secretary Dulles, who said he would like to see the Canadian delegation present a resolution embodying the suggestion.

Dulles said: "I want to emphasize my complete agreement, not only my personal agreement but the feeling of President Eisenhower himself, whom I talked to a few hours ago about this aspect of the matter."

"It is a phase of the situation which we deem of utmost importance and the U.S. delegation will be very happy indeed if the Canadian delegation would formulate and introduce . . . a concrete suggestion."

Pearson, who flew here from Ottawa for the marathon session which convened at 5:35 p.m. Thursday, said after the vote that his delegation saw the approved resolution as "inadequate to achieve the purposes we have in mind at this Assembly."

"Those purposes are defined in the resolution of the UN under which we are meeting—'uniting for peace'—and peace is far more than ceasing to fire, though it certainly must include that essential factor."

But the resolution did not contain, he said, instructions to the UN on "the necessity for a peace settlement without which a cease-fire will be only of temporary value."

"We should have used this opportunity to link a cease-fire to the absolute necessity of a political settlement in Palestine. . . . So I would have liked to see in this resolution a provision authorizing the Security Council to make arrangements with member governments for a UN force large enough to keep the borders at peace and prevent the shooting and forays across them while a practical settlement is worked out, as it must be."

Pearson said Canada regretted having to abstain from supporting Britain and France, "two countries whose ties with us are and will remain close and intimate."

Canada favored parts of the resolution but "I regret also that there was not more time, before a vote was taken, for consideration of the best way to bring the kind of cease-fire which will have enduring and beneficial results."

Pearson said that, in the past, time had always been permitted for adequate examination of even the most critical and urgent resolutions. If more time had been allowed this time, "the result would have been a better one."

"Such a delay would not, I think, have done harm but in the long run would have helped those in the area who need help most."

He implied that if more time had been taken, the major countries concerned might have pledged their willingness to comply with the resolution's demands before it was put to a vote. It was believed that had that happened, the resolution would have won wider support and would have been more powerful as a unanimous, or almost unanimous, voice of the UN.

The marathon session ground on for nearly 11 hours as the delegates individually explained their votes. When it finally broke up, Assembly President Rudecinda Ortega of Chile reminded the Assembly that it officially remained in session, but did not set a specific time for it to meet again.

Approval of the American resolution, which also urged Britain, France and Israel to get out of Egypt, came shortly after 2 a.m. The weary delegates of the 76-nation Assembly then continued in session until almost 5 a.m. to permit members time to give an explanation of their vote.

Canada was one of six countries abstaining on the vote. Sixty-four favored the resolution and five were against it. Luxembourg was absent.

Text of Pearson Speech at UN Cease-Fire Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Following is an unofficial text of the address by Canada's External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson to the UN General Assembly Thursday night, explaining why Canada abstained from voting on the cease-fire resolution and giving its proposal for an international police force in the Israeli-Egyptian dispute.

Abstention is not always easy to explain and in this case particularly so because we are in favor of some parts of this resolution. It is a complicated question in more than one aspect. That being the case, we obviously could not vote against it, especially as it is a moderate proposal in reasonable and objective terms without unfair or unbalanced condemnation—and by references to violations by both sides to the armistice agreements plus the recent action by Israel, the United Kingdom and France, and rightly, against the background of those repeated violations and provocations.

We support the effort being made to bring the fighting to an end, in part, because we regret that force was used in the circumstances that face us at this time and on this issue. As we see it, however, this resolution in its present form—and there was little chance to change it—is inadequate to achieve the purpose we have in mind at this Assembly.

Those purposes are defined in the resolution of the UN under which we are meeting—"uniting for peace"—and peace is far more than ceasing to fire, though it certainly must include that essential factor.

This is the first time action has been taken under this resolution—and I admit to a feeling of sadness, even distress at not being able to support the position taken by two countries whose ties with us are and will remain close.

French government were compelled to intervene at once, as they were fortunately in a position to do."

Dixon compared the situation to that at the time of the invasion of North Korea. Then the UN had forces on hand and was in a position to intervene, he said.

"By a happy chance—and I mean the absence of the Soviet representative from the Security Council on that occasion—the council was able to endorse the United States' action. The same fortunate chance was not ours."

He said the General Assembly might be "tempted" to take no offensive action but "merely to call upon all parties to cease hostilities and to withdraw."

This, virtually, is what the U.S. resolution proposed.

The British delegate, speaking before Dulles presented the resolution, said he must warn the Assembly that "if that is the only action which the UN is prepared to take . . . we shall merely revert to the continuation of the chaos in the Middle East which we have endured in the last eight years."

Dulles, preceded by his resolution with suggestion that if the General Assembly failed to resolve the Egyptian crisis the very life of the UN might be in danger.

"It seems to us imperative," he said, "that something be done because what has been done in apparent contravention of our charter has not yet gone so far as to irretrievably damage this organization or to destroy it."

Speaking slowly and gravely, Dulles said the U.S. "finds itself unable to agree with three nations with whom it has ties, deep friendship, admiration and respect, and two of whom constitute our oldest, most trusted and reliable allies."

The U.S., he said, has re-evaluated its position in view of this split and "even after that re-evaluation, we still find ourselves in disagreement."

In the voting Australia, France, Israel, Britain and New Zealand opposed the cease-fire resolution. Others abstaining besides Canada were Belgium, South Africa, Portugal, The Netherlands and Laos.

Among those favoring the resolution were the Commonwealth countries, India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Pearson, elaborating on his lack of faith in the present resolution, said what was needed was action, "not only to stop the fighting but to make the peace."

"The armed forces of Israel and Egypt are to withdraw behind the armistice lines where they will face each other in hatred and fear. What then six months from now? Are we to go through all this again, a return to the status quo? Is that a return to a happy or secure or even tolerable position?"

"On the contrary it is a return to terror, bloodshed, strife, incidents, charges, counter-charges and, at last, perhaps, an explosion which a UN armistice commission will be futile to prevent or even investigate."

Because sufficient time was not permitted for discussion "we therefore felt that because of its . . . insufficiency" we would abstain in the vote.

"I hope that our inability to deal with this essential matter will very soon indeed be corrected."

and intimate; two countries who have contributed so much to man's progress and freedom under law.

I regret the use of military force in these circumstances but I regret also that there was not more time, before a vote was taken, for consideration of the best way to bring about that kind of cease-fire which will have enduring and beneficial results.

I think we were entitled to that time—for this is not only a tragic moment for the countries and peoples immediately affected—but is equally critical for the United Nations.

I know, of course, that the situation has a special urgency—a human urgency—and that action should not be postponed by dragging out a discussion.

I feel, however, if that time which has always been permitted here for adequate examination of even the most critical and urgent resolution had been available on this occasion, the result would have been a better one.

Such a delay would not, I think, have done harm—but in the long run would have helped those in the area who need help most.

Why do I say this? Those in the area of military action—I think it might have helped them.

The resolution is only a recommendation . . . the effectiveness of this depends on the amount of support. More time might have meant more support by giving governments a chance to examine, perhaps improve the resolution.

Second, the recommendation cannot be effective without compliance of those to whom it is addressed—who have to carry it out. I had hoped that by a short delay and informal talks—we might have made some headway—or at least have tried.

A short time for consideration might also have helped repair what I consider to be one great omission.

Cease Fire Should Be Linked to Settlement . . .

The resolution provides for a cease-fire—of first importance and urgency, I admit.

But it does not provide, along with the cease-fire, a withdrawal provision for any steps, and instructions to the UN, on the necessity for a peace settlement without which a cease-fire will be only of temporary value.

We should have used this opportunity to link a cease-fire to . . . a political settlement in Palestine.

Today we are facing a cease-fire peace. For the UN that feeling could have been harnessed to action, at least to a formal resolve to do, at last, at long last, something effective about the underlying causes of this crisis which has brought us to the very edge of a greater tragedy than even that which has taken place.

We should, then, have recognized this necessity for political settlement in this resolution and done something about it. It need not have postponed any action regarding a cease-fire and indeed might have made a cease-fire more acceptable to those who have to accept it.

Without such a statement which we might have pushed forward under the incentive of fear, our resolution will not make for an enduring, real peace.

So we need action, not only to stop the fighting but to make the peace.

... If Not, Position Would Be Intolerable

The armed forces of Israel and Egypt are to withdraw behind the armistice lines where they will face each other in hatred and fear. What then six months from now? Are we to go through all this again, a return to the status quo? Is that a return to a happy or secure or even tolerable position?

On the contrary, it is a return to terror, bloodshed, strife, incidents, charges, counter-charges and, at last, perhaps, an explosion which a UN armistice commission will be futile to prevent or even investigate.

So I would have liked to see in this resolution a provision authorizing the Security Council to make arrangements with member governments for a UN force—large enough to keep their borders at peace, prevent the shootings and forays across them while a practical settlement is worked out, as it must be.

Such a UN force was referred to by the United Kingdom delegate. I regret exceedingly that time has not been given to follow this up immediately.

My government would recommend Canada's participation in such a UN force—a truly international peace and police force.

Mr. President, we have a duty here, we also have, or should I say, we had an opportunity.

The resolution may deal with one aspect of our duty, an urgent, terribly urgent aspect, a cease-fire, but it does nothing to seize our opportunity which might if it had been seized, brought some real peace and a decent existence to the people of this part of the world.

Time was not given for us to seize this opportunity in this resolution. We therefore felt that because it is inadequate and insufficient we would abstain in the vote.

I hope that our inability to deal with this essential matter will very soon indeed be corrected.

TV Engineers Electrocuted

GEORGETOWN, S. C. (AP)—Two engineers for television station WSCS-TV were electrocuted near here this week while testing broadcasting signals. Wilbur R. Albee, 40, and William M. Brantley, 27, were erecting a portable antenna beside the highway about two miles north of Georgetown, when it apparently struck high tension wires overhead.

"DAD—WHAT DOES VENI, VIDI, VICI MEAN?"
"Wow son, where in the world did you get that?"
"Well today at school, at lunch time—two of the teachers were looking over the NEW Star Weekly—and one of them said that."
"Oh—that's where you get it Eh? Well son, it's Latin and Caesar said it after one of his conquests—it means 'I came, I saw, I conquered.'"
"What's that to do with the new Star Weekly, Dad?"
"I guess it was teacher's way of saying that the NEW Star Weekly is a winner—it came out this week—Millions saw it—and it is really a winner!"
"I see—well let me go and buy a copy right now, I want the comics."

Olympic Flame Lit

OLYMPIA, Greece (Reuters)—The Olympic flame, which will be carried to Melbourne, Australia, for the Olympic Games opening Nov. 22, was lit here today.
The flame flickered to life at the ancient sanctuary of the Plains of Olympia, site of the first games, in Elis, Greece, and will not be extinguished until the final ceremony closes the 1956 Olympic Games next month.
Fed by cylinders of propane gas, the flame, visible for miles around, will burn for 16 days and nights until the closing ceremony Dec. 8.

'CONCEALS TRUTH'—ADLAI

Mid-East Failure Charged to Ike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson declared Thursday night that the foreign policy of the Eisenhower administration has handed Soviet Russia two great victories in the Middle East and now is "at absolute dead end."
The Democratic presidential candidate warned that the situation in the Middle East is "threatening to peace and to our interests in this strategic area."
He gave a big share of the blame for the fighting to the "bankruptcy" of American foreign policy under President Eisenhower.

He renewed his charge made several times in recent days that the Eisenhower administration had tried "systematically" to "conceal the truth from the people."
Stevenson quoted the president as saying a few days ago that progress made in settling the Suez dispute was "most gratifying," and vice-president Richard M. Nixon as reporting the next day that "we have kept the peace."
"Either the president and the vice-president did not know how serious the situation was in the Middle East, or they did not want the American people to know—at least, until after the election," Stevenson said.

Stevenson's 15-minute talk on the Middle East crisis was made over all national radio and television networks. It was a reply to President Eisenhower's radio-TV talk Wednesday night.
He said the "condition which confronts us is stark and simple—our Middle Eastern policy is at absolute dead end." The fighting now going on, he said, "reflects the bankruptcy of our policy" and has given Russia "two great victories."

Stevenson said these were Russia's establishment of its influence in the Middle East, and the "breakdown" of the western alliance, which he termed a Communist aim since Second World War.

Stevenson said he had three main points to make.
"The first is that this series of failures could have been averted—that they were in part the result of ill-considered and mistaken policies of this administration."
"The second is that this administration not only made mistake after mistake in its Middle Eastern policy, but has withheld the consequences from the American people."
"The third is that there are many things which might have been done in the last year to avert war in the Middle East."

Dulles Gave Pistol to Naguib

Stevenson said that when Mr. Eisenhower took office, Communist influence in the Middle East was "at a low ebb," but "things changed."
First, he said, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave a pistol as a personal gift to Gen. Naguib, predecessor to Col. Nasser as Egyptian chief of state. This was taken as a token of "impartiality" between the Arabs and Israel, Stevenson said.

Following this policy, Stevenson said, the U.S. then tried to get the British to evacuate their bases along the Suez Canal.

This pact was "particularly offensive" to Nasser, he said.

Stevenson said that when Nasser's negotiations with the U.S. for arms "bogged down in everlasting haggling," he negotiated a deal for arms from the Communists.

He said that the United States not only failed to stop the Communists from sending arms into the Middle East, but refused to aid Israel with arms, or to guarantee that nation's integrity.

CHIEF POINTS OF UN RESOLUTION

Main points of the U.S. resolution for a cease-fire recommendation passed by the United Nations in the early hours of this morning by a 64-5 vote are as follows:

1. An immediate cease-fire in the Egyptian fighting is recommended.
2. That Israel withdraw behind the armistice lines immediately.
3. That all UN members refrain from introducing war materials into the area. This would apply to Britain and France, which are going ahead with preparations to occupy the Suez Canal zone.
4. Upon the cease-fire taking effect, the Suez Canal be opened for free passage of ships.
5. The Assembly to remain in emergency session pending compliance with the recommendations.

Canadian Track Team Good—But Not Good Enough

By CHARLIE BABIN

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's 1956 Olympic track and field team will be one of the strongest to represent this country in international competition, but don't expect any gold medals.

Although a few Canadians have come up with outstanding performances—by domestic standards—there is little hope that they will offer serious opposition to the world's leading athletes at the Nov. 22-Dec. 8 games. Individually, there isn't a potential gold medal winner on the 17-member team, although there's some hope the relay teams will finish in the first six.

The Canadians are expected to show their best times in the 400-meter and 1,600-meter men's relay events. But even here, the experts feel, they are not expected to be a threat for the top two or three placings.

Take a look at the Canadian Olympic trial results in Hamilton, Ont. The standard for Olympic qualification was based on the sixth-place performances at the 1952 games at Helsinki. Since then athletes around the world have been consistently smashing the first-place times, heights and distances.

However, in the 400-meter relay Stan Léveson, Jack Parrington and Dick Harding, all of Toronto, and Joe Forman, of Mimico, a suburb of Toronto, have been clocked in 41.3 seconds at best. This compares favorably with United States and Russian athletes.

The 1,600-meter team—Murray Cockburn of Toronto, Doug Clement of Vancouver, Laird Sloan of Montreal and Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C.—has not run as a unit as yet. They are highly rated in Canada on the basis of individual times.

The last time Canada captured an Olympic gold medal in track and field was in the 1932 games, when Dunc McNaughton of Winnipeg won the high jump. In the sprints this year, Canadians have neared world records.

Parrington has recorded a 10.2 for the 100 meters to equal the world mark. At the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year, Levenson covered the 200-meter distance in 20.9 seconds, the best time ever recorded in Canada and fifth best anywhere in the world.

Whether Parrington and Levenson can run that fast consistently at Melbourne is not known. They slowed down considerably in later races this year.

Tobacco and Cockburn are in the 400 meters. Their best times so far are 47.9 seconds. Nearly 30 runners have bettered that time in other countries.

Alex Oakley of St. John's, Nfld., reached prominence when he won the United States national walking championships and Canadian Olympic trials. His time for the 20-kilometer (12½ miles) event in the trials at Toronto was one hour 38 minutes 21.8 seconds, nearly two minutes under the Olympic standard.

Canadian women athletes have also turned in some good times. Diane Matheson, who learned to run in Moncton, N.B., before moving to Montreal a year ago, has recorded an unofficial 23.9 seconds in the 200 meters. The world record is 23.4, held by Marjorie Jackson, of Australia, who has retired.

In the Olympic trials Miss Matheson's time was slow. The best she could do was 24.9.

Jackie MacDonald, a Toronto school teacher and mainstay in the shotput event, is not expected to crowd the top performers at Melbourne. Jackie's best mark is 46 feet 1¼ inches. Several athletes have heaved the shot nearly 55 feet.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

I see that the New York Rangers have dealt Bronco Horvath off to the Montreal Canadiens. Which means that it's Toe Blake's turn to feel Bronco's pulse and agree that the talented forward has only hours to live.

Horvath is one of those athletes who is a professional pill-roller, a walking medicine chest and a self-confessed litter-case. Bronco can scare up a fever at the drop of an anti-biotic and he will match his record of hypochondria with any athlete extant.

Bud Poile, the garrulous Edmonton Flyer coach, can talk for hours about Horvath's malady. Bud played medical officer when Bronco was with Edmonton.

This was one of Horvath's more sickly seasons. Bud recalls. Bronco had so many weird maladies and chronic pains that it was all he could do to set the current WHL scoring record.

"I'll give you a typical example," Bud says.

"Bronco comes to me one day and his face looks like a bleached prune. He is so worried."

"He says to me, 'Bud, I'm awful sick. I don't think I can play tonight. I got terrible pains in my stomach and I keep seeing orange blobs in front of my eyes.'"

"I tell him, 'Bronco, it's a terrible thing but you go home and take your medicine. Try to be at the game tonight, just so we can call on you in case of emergency.'"

"Well, there's no change in Bronco's condition that night. He's still leaning on death's door. But I manage to get him out on the ice and he scores five goals and three assists."

Tiger Goldstick, the veteran Flyer trainer, who did a lot of wartime wrestling in Victoria, has his memories of Horvath, too.

Tiger's best story concerns the time that Horvath walked grimly into the dressing room and told Goldstick, "Tiger, I'm all washed up. I can't lift my arm above my waist. I think it's paralyzed."

Muttering soft, soothing platitudes, Goldstick rubbed Horvath's arm with a patented liniment.

"We win 4-0 over Victoria that night," Tiger recalls. "And Horvath gets all four goals."

The Victoria Cougars have advised city council that they will ask compensation from the city if any player is injured because of poor ice, caused by the continual leaks in the freezing system, or if there is any loss of revenue to the club for the same reason.

In a letter to city council, the Cougars management pointed out that on three occasions last hockey season there was no ice for scheduled events, and twice patchwork repairs had to be made during games.

The whole thing goes back to the fact that city council turned down a recommendation for a new freezing system, choosing instead to patch the damage as it occurs.

In a bit of weirdy, both Oak Bay Drakes and Navy requested that an "impartial" referee be brought over from Vancouver to handle Saturday's intermediate football playoff.

One team asking for impartial officials is no oddity, but when both clubs feel they are getting the soiled end of the stick things don't quite add up.

At any rate, the club's arguments canceled each other out and the request was turned down, mainly because the local referees' association said that if an outside referee is brought in, the league would have to provide an outside umpire, field judge, head linesman and stickmen.

DIDN'T ASK COMMITTEE

Rowell Under Fire For Olympic Picks

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of Canada's Amateur Athletic Union track and field committee was under fire today because he named two athletes to the country's Olympic team without consulting the rest of his committee.

Criticism started Thursday with a formal protest lodged against Fred Rowell's action at the AAU's annual meeting. Newfoundland declared its marathon runner, George Hillier, should be put on the team instead of one of the two Rowell picked.

Since the protest was announced no discussion of the action has taken place in an open meeting, but it was believed to have been talked over at a stormy closed-door session. Observers at the conference said it might go before the general session today or Saturday.

Rowell says he picked the two independently because there was not enough time between the end of the marathon and walking trials, Saturday, Sept. 29, and the deadline for naming team members, Tuesday, Oct. 2, to consult the committee.

He said the committee agreed that if none of the walkers or marathoners, who competed a few days after the other track and field athletes, bettered the standard, athletes from other events would be picked to fill out the team.

"And," he added, "Hillier did not make the standard."

He admitted that Miss Whitty failed to clear the bar at the standard of five feet three inches during the trials but said she passed that mark before and after.

She has also beaten the qualifying standard for the high jump finals at the 1956 Olympics—five feet 2½ inches—seven times this year.

The AAU rules do not state that a competitor must better the standard at any specific trial, "though it is one of the important considerations."

Hoop Scores Indicate Torrid Race

Victoria hoop fans may be treated to one of the best Victoria and District Basketball League scrambles in many years before teams in the senior B men's loop reach the end of their schedule.

Two new clubs in the six-team circuit indicated they are ready to make things tough for holdover squads as the new season got under way at Central Junior High School Thursday night.

Victoria College Vikings, a junior club which will contest the league title but drop back to junior ranks for playoffs, racked up defending-champion Dickinson & Dunn, 71-63, and Morrisons just missed upsetting the holdover Farmer Construction squad, losing a 56-55 thriller.

Both tussles were fast-moving, high-scoring battles and the small crowd that turned out watched a better brand of basketball than that which was on display through most of last season.

SHAPE COUNTS

Conditioning made the big difference in the feature game. The youthful Vikings ran over the slower Tirenmen in the opening stages and moved into an early, 12-point lead then used their speed to advantage to hold their more experienced opponents on even terms the rest of the way.

Tommy English, Vancouver Island all-star high school guard last season, rapped in 15 points for the Vikings during the first half and finished the evening with a 27-point total. Bob Tomlinson and Waldo Skillings each added 12 points for College.

Coach Norm Baker dropped in 27 points for the Tirenmen.

AHEAD AT HALF

In the opener, Farmers were in front, 29-24, at half time but almost dropped the decision as Morrison's staged a spirited second-half rally.

The count was even at 48-48 and again at 54-54 before Bill Garner gave Farmers a 56-54 lead in the dying seconds. Coach Lou McCorkill narrowed the gap to a single point on a free shot just as the game ended.

Jake Jacobson of Morrison's set the scoring pace with 19 points.

Victoria College Vikings—English 37, Skillings 15, Tomlinson 15, Chiko 7, McCulloch 4, Kowalski 2, Flynn 1. Total—71.

Dickinson & Dunn—Baker 27, Jones 12, Tooley 12, Morrison 5, Denison 4, Gilbert 3. Total—63.

Farmer Construction—Anderson 14, Martin 14, Shields 9, Strank 8, Prior 8, Garner 4. Total—56.

Morrisons—Jacobson 19, Patterson 8, Norbury 7, Gaudin 6, McCorkill 5, Webb 4, Olinstead 4. Total—55.

Jack O'Reilly Takes Over as Kelowna Coach

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Jack O'Reilly Thursday was named coach of the Kelowna Packers, bottom-place entry in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

He replaced Moe Young who was released by the club executive this week after the club lost its fifth straight game.

O'Reilly, 32-year-old veteran of the Western Hockey League, in which he played defence with the Vancouver Canucks and New Westminster Royals, is Packers' sixth coach in eight years.

He coached the Kelowna juveniles to a provincial championship two years ago.

Packers will see their first action under O'Reilly tonight when they meet the league-leading Vernon Canadians.

Canadiens Buy Bronco Horvath

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens Thursday announced the purchase of Bronco Horvath from New York Rangers and said he will be sent to Rochester of the American Hockey Association subject to immediate recall.

The deal between the two National Hockey League clubs was for the waiver price of $15,000.

Sailors, Drakes Make Last Stand

Macdonald Park, barely recovered from the free-wheeling B.C. junior Canadian football final last week, will be the scene of the second game of the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football Union final Saturday afternoon at 2.

The scene of the final conflict of the two-game, total-point series between Oak Bay Drakes and Navy was shifted from Athletic Park tonight in order not to clash with other sport events.

Drakes carry a confident four-point edge into the second game after outlasting the sailors, 7-3, last Friday in the first game of the series.

Both teams are free of hampering injuries. Coach Frank Hinde of Navy, declining to throw a smokescreen of vague injuries over the scene as he did last week, reports that the Tars are "up" for this one both physically and mentally.

Holding the Drakes to one touchdown in the playoff opener could almost be classed as a moral victory for the sailors and they guarantee to take it all if the "breaks fall the right way."

Doug Brown, whose boot kept the sailors in contention in the first game, will be back doing the kicking for Navy, along with the regular starting backfield of Charlie Thomas at quarterback, Wayne Dougherty and Gerry Porter as fullbacks, and Bill Schick, Bob Gooderham or Red Larsen as halfbacks.

Defensive standouts Bud Brown, Pop Reeves and Joe Hornesty will anchor the Navy defences.

Drakes, riding toward their second straight playoff championship with a four-point cushion, will be at their full, powerful strength for the contest.

Import quarterback Tom Sanregret, who displayed a devastating passing arm Friday when the Navy bottled up fullbacks Ricky Ginn and Ted Koska, will again be calling signals in the backfield. Ever-dangerous Ginn and Koska will handle the plunging with speedy Johnny Whan and George Wilson running outside, from the halfback slots.

Ultimate winner of the series inherits the B.C. title and hosts either Winnipeg Rams or Fort William Redskins here Nov. 17 in the Western Canada final.

City council is expected to approve a grant of $200 today to furnish the visiting team with western hospitality during its stay in Victoria.

Rugby Match Called Off

Victoria Rugby Union officials have announced that Saturday's scheduled first division match between Victoria College and JBAA has been postponed.

Only an enchain Saturday is a first division exhibition tussle between Oak Bay and Navy at Carnarvon Park at 2 p.m.

Habs' Big Three Outnumbers Wings

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Bill Campbell has a problem that will sound strange to many anglers. He's got too many trout.

Bill doesn't actually have them. But they are swimming around in McGillivray Lake, where Bill has operated the McGillivray Lake Fishing Camp for the past four summers, and he would like to see at least 100,000 fish trimmed from their ranks.

Back in Victoria for another winter, Bill is already itching to return to his mountain lake, situated 55 miles from Kamloops. He'll again be instructing the night school fly-tying classes that start in January but much of time in the next few months is going to be spent pondering ways of providing bigger trout for his customers.

It is a problem typical of mountain lakes. Trout have increased to the point where there is hardly enough food to go around and a big percentage of the fish never achieve normal growth.

Free of ice for only about four months each year, the lake measures a mile and a half long by a half-mile wide and Campbell believes it contains between 300,000 and 400,000 fish.

As far as numbers go, fishing in the lake is good and some of the trout grow to almost three pounds. However, most are considerably smaller and Bill would like to see the average size increased to about two pounds.

The answer is either more food or fewer fish, or both. Bill has introduced a type of freshwater shrimp to the lake in an attempt to provide more food and hopes to learn next summer if the shrimp have survived and multiplied.

Aware of the ever-present danger of upsetting the natural balance, he is considering every possible result while working with provincial game officials on ways of trimming the fish population.

It appears that eventually a poison may be used in the stream flowing out of the lake to kill off some of the spawning trout and a barrier constructed to block off fingerlings from the lake for one year.

This, Campbell hopes, would help him realize his goal of a two-pound average. But even if the trout never get any bigger, he thinks life at McGillivray Lake is right next door to paradise.

Limit Catches at Cowichan River

Weather has made fishing a rugged proposition during the past week but most of those who have been able to dodge the wind and rain squalls have been taking in some scrappy winter springers and lots of grise while trout anglers have taken some good catches from the headwaters of the Cowichan River and many of the popular lakes.

Some of the best fishing, and roughest water, has been between Brothie Ledge and Ten Mile Point. Ten Mile was a hot spot last weekend and Trial Island has been a consistent producer.

Cerry Lauder and Jake Martin used Macs Squid plugs to take eight springs off Ten Mile last weekend and Sid Jenkins pulled in at 10-pounder at Trial Island.

Dave Grant almost landed a whopper off Trial, losing what looked like a 35-pounder when his leader broke while he was preparing to gaff the fish.

Small spring salmon and grise have also been providing fair sport at Saanich Inlet. Bill Renfrew took the biggest reported this week, including a 15-pounder in a limit at Goldstream.

At the Brentwood end, O. Elfa boated a limit of springs up to nine pounds and Mrs. Ida Rawnsley, after an unsuccessful summer, finally picked up her first sizeable salmon, a scrappy 10-pound coho. George Heathfield took a 13-pound, nine-ounce coho off Bamberton Thursday.

Alex Alexander reeled in a quick trout limit at Shawnigan Lake last Sunday. Using an orange bucktail fly, Alex filled his limit in 90 minutes with the largest fish tipping the scales at two pounds.

Several trout limits have been taken on salmon egg flies from the upper reaches of the Cowichan and some of the fish are topping the four-pound mark. Among the limit catches were those taken Wednesday by Archie Hazeldine and Art Christopher of Vancouver.

Midget Royals Win Over Americans, 4-2

Rally Wins For Montreal; Bruins Climb

By The Canadian Press

First there was Jean Beliveau, who in three seasons has soared to the heights of hockey greats. Then Bernie Geoffrion, laboring under the pain of an injured elbow. And Henri Richard, still bothered by an injured knee.

There were others of course, but these three men were the firebrands Thursday night as Montreal Canadiens came up with a great third-period rally to beat Detroit Red Wings, 4-3, and end Wings' National Hockey League unbeaten streak at seven games.

Beliveau, the most feared centre in the game, scored two goals and assisted on a third. Geoffrion picked up one goal and an assist. And Richard, who didn't get off the bench until the third period because of his knee, scored one goal.

It was a big night in Montreal Forum and the 14,519 customers nearly went crazy. It was the third victory of the season in nine games for Canadiens. They finally showed the vaunted power expected of them.

The victory left Canadiens in fifth place. Boston Bruins moved into a third-place tie Thursday night with a 5-2 win over Chicago Black Hawks. Bruins have nine points, the same as New York Rangers and three points behind Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

HAWS STILL FAST

Hawks, with only a win and a tie in nine starts, are last with three points, four behind the Habs.

At Boston, 10,507 fans were on hand to see Bruins break out with goals in all three periods. They were led by left winger Vic Stasiuk, a former Detroit player, who scored two goals. Singles were registered by rookie Larry Regan, Doug Mohns and Ken Chevrelis. Forbes Kennedy and Real Modrell scored for Hawks.

No games are scheduled tonight. Here's the weekend line-up: Saturday—Chicago at Montreal and Detroit at Toronto; Sunday—Montreal at Chicago and New York at Boston.

THE HAGEN STORY

Joe Paid Twice For My Ticket

One of the most colorful figures in the world of golf was Walter Hagen. Now, with the aid of Margaret Seaton Hagen he has written his amazing life story. Because of world-wide popularity and the fact that he played in the city, the Times takes pleasure in presenting the Hagen's biography.

CHAPTER 12

In 1929 Joe Kirkwood and I met in Los Angeles to get our reservations for the first leg of a six-month tour of Australia and Japan. Joe was always a penurious soul. He kept account of every dime he made and most of the coin stayed close to him.

I had been living pretty well, not participating too much in golf tournaments. Consequently I was short of cash and I put the bite on Joe for $1,000.

He let me have it after some argument and with the understanding it would purchase my steamship ticket. My intentions were good. I usually just had a chance to squeeze money for luck, before going out and rounding up another batch.

This time was no exception. A beautiful diamond bracelet for a very lovely girl, a bon voyage gift, interfered with my passage reservation. I admitted to Joe that the money was no longer with me and he unbuttoned his pocket once more and paid my way.

We steamed on for Honolulu with all our funds in Joe's possession. He kept books and held on to most of the cash for the entire tour!

My Greatest Shot Paid Off

I played the third shot up and left myself eight feet from the hole. Abe had a 30-foot putt and he all but holed it, just missing the cup and stopping on the very edge to the right, leaving me a dead stymie, blocking the hole. Things looked extremely black for me right then—having a dead stymie at eight feet and knowing if I didn't make it I'd be three down with only six more holes to play.

I could putt around his ball, but I could see no possible chance to hole my ball. I decided to use a seven-iron. I looked the green over... back and forth, back and forth. Then I hit my ball just short of Abe's, which lay delicately poised on the very rim of the cup. My ball hit a breath of an inch behind his, jumped it and stayed in the hole! We halved the hole and I was still in business. And that stymie shot of mine disturbed Abe so much he hooked his next tee shot badly, and lost the hole, leaving me only 1 down. I finished the match by winning 2 and 1. That stymie, the greatest shot I ever played, paid off.

Putting has won many a match for me. My penchant for holing the ball has made up for my wildness on the fairway in match after match.

Much of the indifferent putting I've seen is due to the shaky, uncertain way a ball is hit. I like to hit a ball firmly. Banging the ball recklessly isn't going to do, of course, because mechanically it is as difficult to hole out from beyond the cup as it is from short of it, distances being equal. But at least you've had one try when you go past the cup.

(From the book THE WALTER HAGEN STORY Copyright, 1956, by Walter Hagen. Published by Simon & Schuster, New York.)

Mid-East Oil War Could Aid Canada

Alberta Production Boost Likely If Shortage Hits U.S. Supply

TORONTO (CP) — Canada, consuming some 700,000 barrels of oil a day, seems to have no immediate cause for alarm about her supply, regardless of what happens in the Middle East, according to opinion here.

This is because she gets only about 30,000 barrels a day from Middle East sources and present indications are that this could easily be made up from Western Hemisphere suppliers.

Nevertheless, the Middle East now supplies about 21 per cent of world demand, and if it were removed it would set up world-supply strains which might reach across the Atlantic.

COULD CAUSE SHORTAGE

U.S. sources have estimated that if either the Middle East pipe lines, or the Suez Canal, were to be blocked, Venezuela and North America could make up for the world loss. However, if both went out, there would be a shortage.

Canada herself is producing oil at a current rate of more than 500,000 barrels daily, but about 100,000 barrels of this goes to the United States.

The balance of Canadian needs is met largely from Venezuela and other Caribbean countries—virtually all for use in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

Production in Alberta now is held down to about 50 per cent of what it could produce if markets were available.

In case of need this could be stepped up, but present transportation facilities would not be able to handle any sharp increase.

The pipe line which carries Western oil to Ontario is operating at about capacity and there is a little spare space in the Trans-Mountain pipe line to British Columbia.

B.C. Lumber Exports Down 39%

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia lumber exports have dropped 39 per cent this year, a report from the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau showed Thursday.

The bureau report showed that B.C. exported 497,221,341 board feet of lumber to foreign ports to the end of September this year, 39 per cent less than the 1955 total for a similar period.

In September alone, exports dropped 28,497,282 board feet from September of last year.

Exports to the United Kingdom during September were off more than 50 per cent. Lumber men said this is mainly because of high ocean freight rates and the consequent high price of B.C. lumber overseas.

For the first nine months of 1956, domestic sales were also down to 280,887,552 from 301,520,981 the previous year.

At the same time the industry is faced with lower prices. Vancouver lumbermen report that mill prices for U.S. shipments are $16 to $18 below the high of a year ago on Douglas fir common grades and are proportionately low for other species.

Only top grades of clear Douglas fir, in short supply for some time, are holding the price line.

One official said, "No immediate improvement in price or demand can be expected and right now it looks like the squeeze will be widely felt with layoffs fairly prevalent for a time."

Nearly 200 Miles Of Oil Pipeline Laid in Prairies

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—Plans are being made for the tie-in of spreads one and two of the trans-Canada pipeline in the near future, company officials said Thursday.

Spread one, from Burstall to Leinan has been constructed by the Majestic Construction Company, while spread two from Swift Current east was constructed by Canadian Bechtel.

When the main tie-in is made, there will be more than 200 miles of the 34-inch pipe in the ground, Carl Whittaker of the Trans-Canada Pipe Line Company, said in an interview.

How About This Odd Amount?
$449.72

Odd amounts can be conveniently repaid evenly each month. This plan is paid in 15 months at $35.00 a month. It's just one example of Niagara loans ranging from $100 to $1500 or more.

CANADA'S OIL STATUS GROWING

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada will become increasingly important as an oil supplier with or without the Suez crisis, two executives of Standard Oil Co. of California said Thursday.

P. L. Fahrney, vice-president in charge of liaison with Standard's associated firms, said shipments of crude from Vancouver to California are rising substantially.

W. W. Davison, vice-president in charge of Industrial Relations, said, "In California we're beginning to feel the pinch."

PROVINCIAL EXPERTS END TAX PACT TALKS

OTTAWA (CP) — A four-day conference of federal-provincial tax experts was completed Thursday and informants said it likely will be the final one before governments get down to the actual signing of new tax rental agreements.

The conference of finance deputy ministers was designed to iron out technical details in connection with new rental pacts under the federal government's tax-splitting formula. It goes into effect for five years beginning April 1, 1957.

Informants said it appeared likely that at least seven provinces will continue to rent out their direct tax fields to the central administration.

It appears certain Quebec will continue to collect her own personal and corporation income taxes, but there is some doubt what Ontario and British Columbia will do.

Central Bank Makes New Move To Keep Ahead of Inflation

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada has decided on new policy designed to keep it automatically 3.5—the seventh in 15 months and one step ahead of the short-term money market and help prevent an inflationary rise in the country's money supply.

Under the new set-up, announced Thursday night, the central bank's interest rate on loans to chartered banks and securities dealers will be fixed at one-quarter, on one per cent above the average weekly tender rate of 90-day government treasury bills.

The action brings another immediate rise in the central interest rate—to 3.59 per cent from 3.5—the seventh in 15 months and one step ahead of the short-term money market and help prevent an inflationary rise in the country's money supply.

The bills, sort of short-term government bonds maturing anywhere from 90 to 180 days, are considered in the money market as about the next best thing to cash.

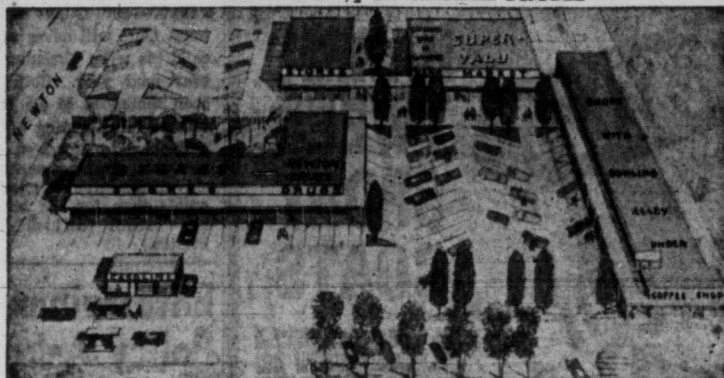

The bills' tender rates vary in relation to the funds available for such investments. If money is scarce, the rate likely will climb, dropping if money is plentiful.

The Bank of Canada, however, can influence the rate through its huge monetary operations. The rate has been rising steadily since the central bank switched from an "easy money" policy early in 1955 to "tight money" in 1956.

Lawyer Downs 2 Bottles Of Scotch to Prove Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Edward Bobick, a big man with a large capacity for Scotch whisky, was the happiest lawyer in town Tuesday.

He drank two bottles of Scotch and wobbled into court to prove that a man could down that much and still navigate.

Bobick's clients, Robert D. Burns and William J. Cleary, are on trial in general sessions court on charges of kidnapping a young aviation engineer in Boston last June 19. They testified that they guzzled 80 glasses of beer and a bottle of whisky between them in an 18-hour period before the alleged kidnapping.

A prosecution witness, Dr. Meyer Texon, said that anyone who drank that much in that time would be out like a light.

Not so, said lawyer Bobick, and he set about to prove it. He contended that his clients could have drunk as much as they said they did and "not know the nature of their act."

The 30-year-old lawyer, who weighs 260 and stands six feet, 1½, began drinking Scotch with water in his office Monday afternoon, with his partner and a private detective as witnesses. He drank until 1 a.m. and slept until 6 a.m. Tuesday. Then he got up and washed down the second bottle in time to go to court.

BOTTLES IN COURT

His face flushed, he marched into court with the two witnesses and the two empty bottles.

"Am I in a stupor or unconscious?" he asked the witnesses. "No," they answered.

Then he picked up the bottles and waved them before Judge John A. Mullen and the jury.

Speaking in slow, measured tones, he said:

"I now offer these two exhibits as evidence on behalf of the prosecution—I beg the court's pardon, I mean on behalf of the defence."

"Mark them as being in evidence," Mullen ruled.

Both sides rested their cases after Bobick's dramatic testimony.

Bobick's home telephone was answered by his partner Tuesday night.

"Mr. Bobick is in repose," he announced.

Entertainment Policy Asked By Curtis

City council will be asked to lay down a policy for entertainment of groups visiting Victoria.

Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the council entertainment committee said Thursday:

"We are asked to help teams when they are going away and asked to help them when they are visiting."

He said there is a strong feeling against the practice.

The committee recommended a grant of $200 be paid for hospitality of the Western Canada Football finalists here, Nov. 10. Last year $100 was given to aid Oak Bay Drakes in a trip to finals in Fort William. That city lavished entertainment on the Victoria team.

BIG CONVENTIONS

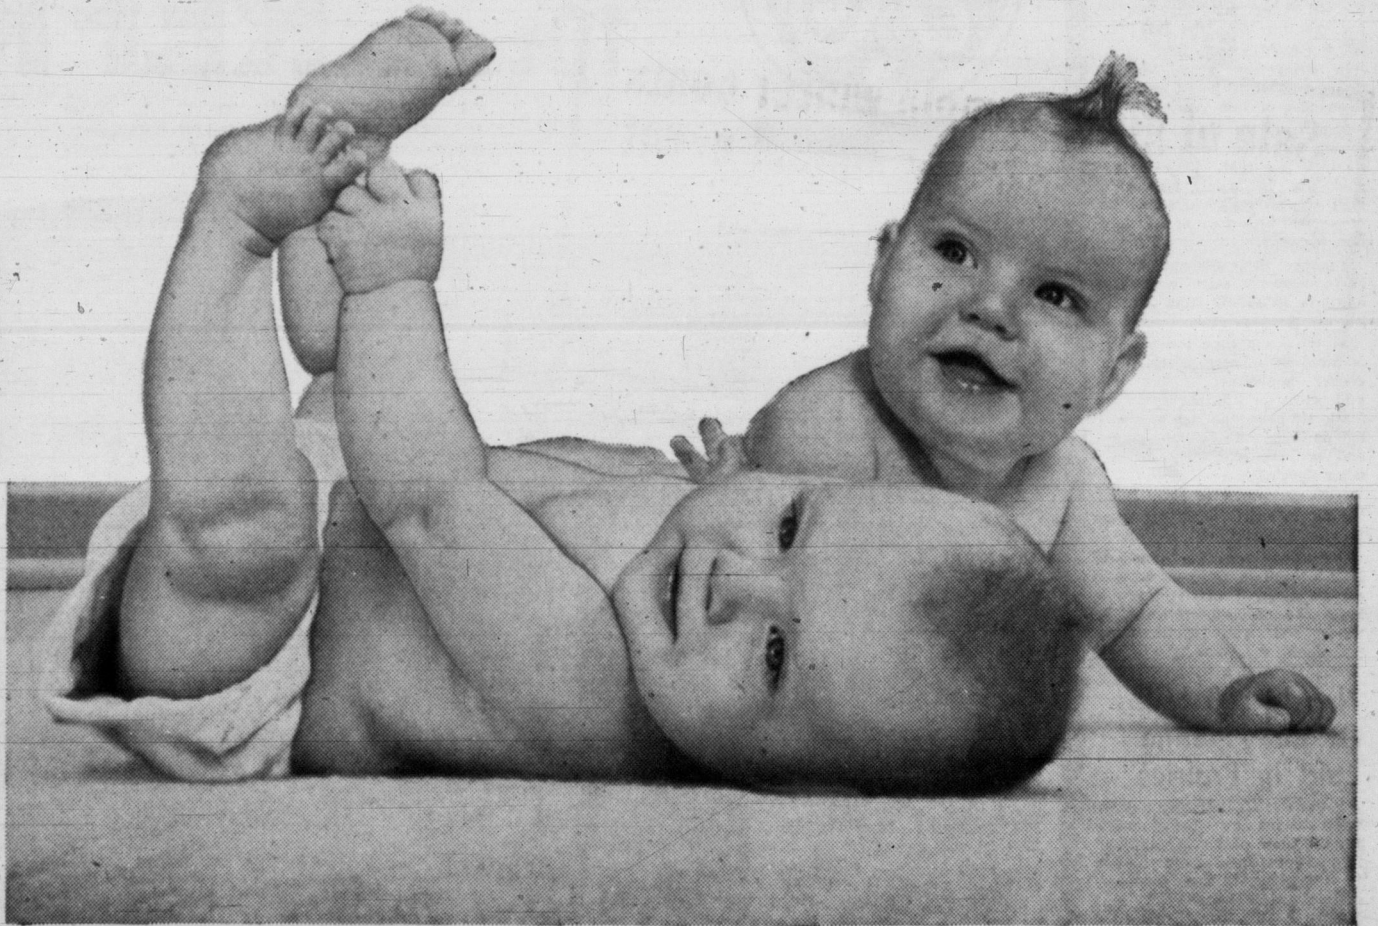

It was pointed out that in 1957, 600 delegates of the Chamber of Commerce will meet here in national convention, and in 1958 the Junior Chamber convenes here.

Convention cities usually hold banquets. There has been strong opposition in Victoria to this trend, due to the high number of pensioner homeowners who indirectly pay their share of the hospitality expense.

In other business, the committee denied a request for a football finals parade on Saturday, Nov. 10, in line with a recent by-law.

SHOPPING GUIDE

There Are Treats in Store Even for Those on Diets

By PENNY SAVER

A woman stood staring at the grocery shelves in a local store, and with amazement, said, "Tinned bread and cake! impossible!" But it's true. Seeded rye bread, baked right in the tins is selling at 49 cents. The same price is white diet bread, baked similarly in the tins. Also for the diet conscious is golden round cake, low in calories and high in nourishment. The cake costs 65 cents a tin. Sounds a bit strange, doesn't it... a tin of bread!

Chocolate or vanilla freeze-dried desserts for dieters are ascholine-sweetened, so that you can enjoy it fully, knowing that a minimum of calories is going into the sweet.

Raspberry, lemon, orange, strawberry and lime gelatin lesserts are made just like regular jelly, except that the result is a treat for those watching their weight. The jelly costs 29 cents a package.

Assorted milk chocolates are 1.65 a box, and assorted continental chocolates, the same price, are low-calorie sweets, specially for dieters.

Into the vegetable market now, I'll let you in on the prices for this week.

Corn on the cob looks very good, and is sweet at four for a quarter. Broccoli is selling at 15 cents for two pounds, and locally grown carrots are two bunches for 15 cents.

California lettuce is 20 cents a head, and a cucumber for hat crispy salad is 10 cents. Celery is 15 cents a stalk and green onions are two bunches for 15 cents. Local tomatoes are a good size, and firm, too. They are just 10 cents a pound. The hothouse variety is 25 cents a pound. Sprouts are four pounds for 45 cents, and cauliflower is frothy and white, a good and nourishing buy, at 25 cents a head. Red cabbage for pickling or dinner dishes is three pounds for 29 cents, and savoy cabbages are 19 cents each. Chinese white turnips are something different. They're much like the shape of a small marrow, and cost 29 cents for two pounds. Swiss chard costs 25 cents for two pounds.

Sweet potatoes, no matter how they're cooked are favorites in most houses. You can buy them at two pounds for 39 cents, the same price you pay for yams.

THE BETTER HALF

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About accepting a fur coat:

My husband died four years ago. Lately I started going with a man who is taking me off my feet. We aren't engaged, but I have an idea we will be. My birthday will be next month, and this man wants to give me a fur coat. I am asking you advice as to whether or not I should accept it. I told the man to let me think it over for a week or two, so would you answer this as soon as possible? My two daughters, age 19 Louise Davis and 22, are strongly against the idea, saying it isn't proper, but I am inclined to think that their attitude is more of jealousy and resentment against any man who may replace their father.

Louise Davis answers: I think you had better turn down the offer as tactfully and graciously as you can. Even if you are engaged to be married, it would be advisable to pass it up. It is understandable that your daughters may resent this man's attentions, for the memory of their father is vivid. But that's neither here nor there as far as propriety goes. You aren't married, nor are you engaged, and there is always the chance that nothing may come

A wedding veil of Limerick lace belonging to her grandmother was worn by Janet Margaret Bartholomew when she became the bride of John MacEvoy Baker in the Chapel of the Incarnation, New York City, last Saturday morning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Victor Bartholomew, 1110 Fort Street, Victoria, who traveled to New York for the wedding.

Mr. Baker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Baker, Butler, N.J.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white lace wedding gown, its full skirt sweeping to floor length and the bodice topped with a pea de sole jacket. She carried her family's ivory prayer book mounted with white roses and stephanotis.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church for the service, which was conducted by Rev. Howard Bingley. Bach choral preludes were of it. An engaged girl or woman doesn't accept anything so costly. So I advise you to be on the safe side and tell this man that you can't accept the fur coat. He will understand. You might tell him, too, if you wish, that your daughters advise against it too. You don't want to subject yourself to criticism.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Try Vegetable Dye To Touch Up Hair

(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I used to have pretty blonde hair but it has become several shades darker. At present it is dull and has a dirty appearance. Is there anything I could use at home to lighten my hair and bring it back to its original color?"

A. All hair turns darker with the years. Why not experiment with vegetable rinses. Be sure that it is a real vegetable rinse and not a light dye. Vegetable rinses wash off, so if you do not like the first shade you try you can use another.

Q. "I am 27 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weigh 136 pounds. My bust measures 35, waist 26, and hips 37 inches. I get tired of wearing full skirts but my girl friends tell me that straight lines aren't for me. Please tell me what you think."

A. You certainly are not overweight. If anything you are a little underweight. Your measurements are also allowable for a good figure. You might take hip slimming exercises to lose an inch or so there. I should think you could wear straight skirts now, but you certainly could after trimming the hips a bit.

Q. "About a year ago I lost some weight and now my friends tell me that I am too thin, but I don't think so. I am 16 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 105 pounds. My measurements are bust 32, waist 23, hips 34 inches. What about my measurements and do you think I should gain some weight?"

A. Everybody's friends seem to be kidding today. I imagine that you should gain from eight to 10 pounds. Even if you have a slight build you probably should gain five. Your measurements are lovely.

Q. "I am 22 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 94 pounds. My bust measures 32, waist 23 and hips 33 inches. I am always very conscious of having large and expanding hips."

A. Whew! How you can think that your hips are large and expanding when they measure 33 inches, I cannot imagine. You have practically perfect measurements but you are a lot underweight.

Starting out with such proportions I feel sure that you will gain proportionately. Your figure will be nicer and you will be healthier if you gain about 20 pounds.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Richard Gilmer, aged 13, of Payette, Idaho, for his question:

What Are Aphids?

That little green bug on a cucumber leaf is an aphid. Chances are the gall on the apple tree was made by another aphid. Another aphid weakens our corn by sucking the sap from its roots. Most aphids are pretty insects and all of them have a most fascinating family life story. Apart from this, Andy has little or no good to say about them. We call them plant lice. They feed on the sap of some of our favorite plants, weakening our crops. Some form galls that harm orchard trees. Many carry blights by infecting plants with disease viruses.

The aphids belong to a large branch of the insect family. The average aphid is a small green bug, almost always a female. She often has two pairs of gauzy, lightly veined wings. The back pair is much smaller than the front pair and both pairs are held down her sides when Mrs. Aphid is resting or feeding.

The food is always fresh sap from a living plant. The mouth is a sucking tube which pokes forth from the insect's forehead. Being such a small creature, the aphid is not strong enough to pierce bark or strong stems. The aphid feeds on the sap from leaves and tender shoots. A few live their whole lives underground, feeding from the roots of plants like our precious corn.

The fascinating life story of the aphid is hard to believe. The winter is spent in the egg stage. Each kind of aphid places its eggs near its own special food supply. The eggs hatch in the spring and, of all things, every single one of them is a female. Each is a nymph, a minute copy of mama without wings. The little girls eat and eat and grow and grow. Soon they lay eggs of their own and we get a new generation of aphids. This is amazing because there are no papa aphids around. There may be 12 following generations throughout the summer, all of them females and all this without the help of any papa aphids at all.

One batch of eggs in the fall is more normal. It hatches into males and females. These females lay a batch of properly fertilized eggs and these are the eggs that do not hatch until spring. Then the amazing fatherless family cycle begins all over again.

$1.4 Million Hangar for CPA To House New Jet Airliners

(From Times News Service)

VANCOUVER—Canadian Pacific Airlines has let contract for a $1,400,000 hangar, largest of its kind in Canadian civil aviation, to be built at Vancouver International Airport by Marwell Construction Company.

Construction of the precast concrete structure will begin April 1. The hangar will be completed by September, in time to house CPA's fleet of Bristol Britannia turbo-prop airliners.

Most original feature of the new building will be the precast concrete roof covering a floor area of 60,000 square feet.

The structure will accommodate a series of future jet aircraft larger than the Britannias when they become available. It will be suitable for sky giants with wingspans up to 160 feet and tails up to 32 feet high.

The new hangar is an integral part of CPA's $20,000,000 Bristol Britannia expansion program, designed to put the company's fleet of long-range turbo-prop airliners into service on CPA's routes spanning five continents.

RAINFALL RECORDS

VANCOUVER—Rainfall records nearly 50 years old were washed away here last month. One-day 3.96 inches fell.

Weather officials announced Thursday that two records were broken and one equalled.

Total rainfall for October was 13.96 inches. The previous October record of 10.45 inches was set in 1940.

The 3.96-inch fall recorded on Oct. 19 broke a record of 3.13 inches set in 1940.

APPLE SHIPMENTS UP

KELOWNA—The movement of Okanagan apples to western Canada markets is well ahead of last year, B.C. Tree Fruit reports. The junior box of McIntosh has shown a 50 per cent increase over 1953.

"Our Handi-Pak McIntosh shipments this year now total $38,748, or almost 2½ times the volume moved last year," said R. P. Valrod, general manager of the marketing agency.

$10,000 WEATHER DAMAGE

McBRIDE—A new hotel under construction here suffered about $10,000 damage when recent cold weather and soil conditions caused one wall of the concrete foundation to collapse. Collapsing of the foundation caused the upper structure to sag as much as 12 inches in places.

Frost and excess moisture in the soil caused the foundation to collapse.

TRAIN KILLS MAN

NELSON—Peter Winstanley was fatally injured in a truck-train collision six miles west of here Thursday night.

Winstanley, reported to be in his early forties, died in hospital after the accident.

He was driving to his ranch home at Crescent Valley, 15 miles west of Nelson, when his truck collided with the train and was thrown 125 feet.

TUG'S ACTION CRITICIZED

VANCOUVER—A ship's pilot testified in Admiralty Court Wednesday that the manoeuvres of the tug Teeshoe were ill-judged, just before it sank with the loss of three lives at Powell River Dec. 4, 1954.

Capt. James Rankin gave evidence in defence of the Italian-owned freighter Ss. Giovanni Amendola. The freighter is being sued for $33,106 by the Powell River Co. Ltd., owners of the Teeshoe.

The Teeshoe sank shortly after it ferried Capt. Rankin to the freighter at night during rough weather. The only survivor was a 12-year-old boy, Freddy Hott, whose father was lost.

BANK ROBBERY CHARGES

VANCOUVER—David Auld, 24, and Harvey Lyons, 32, were remanded to Nov. 7 when they appeared in Vancouver police court Thursday on bank robbery charges.

The two, along with Carl Fundytus, 27, were arrested on Sept. 24, an hour after three men held up a Royal Bank of Canada branch here and escaped with $8,000 cash. Nearly all the money was recovered.

Fundytus pleaded guilty to the robbery charge Oct. 12 and was sentenced by Magistrate Oscar Orr to 20 years' imprisonment.

Morgan was arrested last Friday night in a police raid on his home. Prosecutor Wilfred Hefernan told police court when Morgan first appeared Saturday that officers found narcotics paraphernalia and 6,000 capsules of drugs at the residence.

Five loaded log cars and one lumber car of a PGE freight jumped the rails in the mishap, the cause of which has not yet been established. No one was injured, but southbound service on the line was interrupted.

PGE officials announced that today's trains are running on schedule.

Here's what keeps the price of gasoline
low

Why have wholesale gasoline prices increased only one-third as much as wholesale prices in general since 1935-1939?

Raw material and other costs have gone way up. Why not gasoline?

Gasoline prices have stayed down because a lot of companies are in the oil business—producing, refining and selling, more and more efficiently.

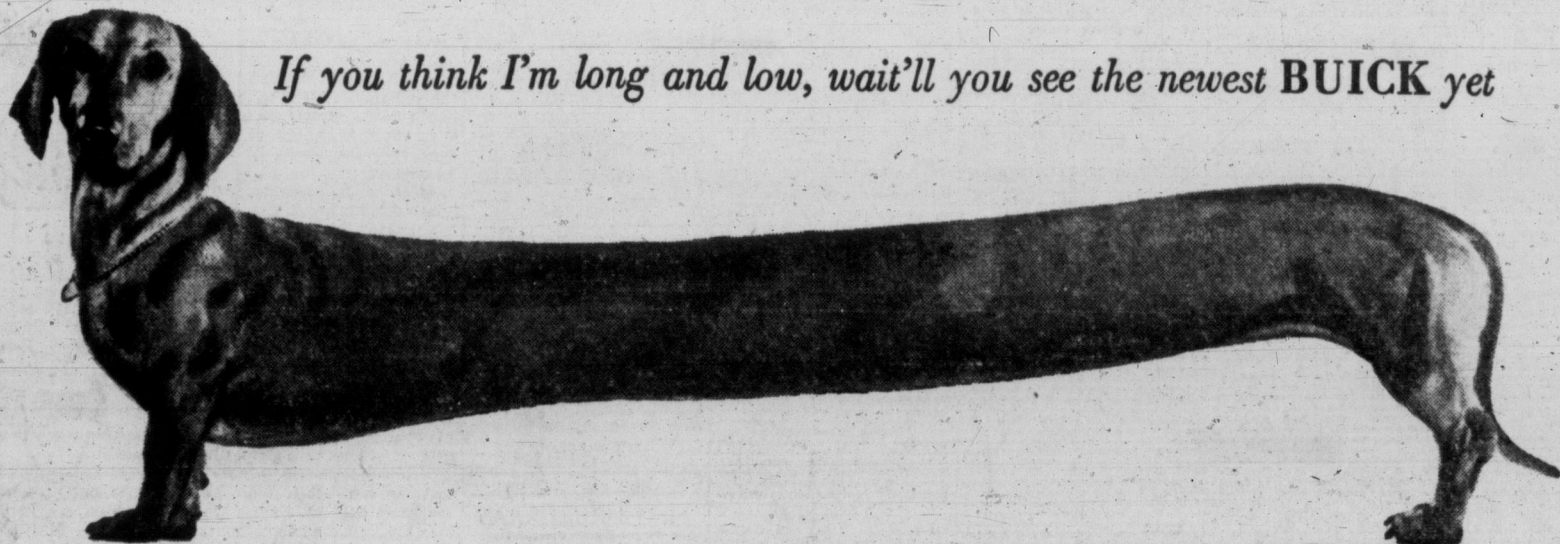

The consumer can shop around—looking for the best products at the best price.

Competition for the motorist's dollar keeps the price of gasoline low.

36TH VICTIM

Easy, Fred; Maybe Okies Playing Dead

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Colorado's sports publicity director does not seem too hopeful about Dal Ward's Buffaloes can rise above becoming Oklahoma's 36th straight football victim.

Instead of the usual publicity release, parties on his mailing list got this missive:

"Sowers coming. Hunting. Buffs. Things in Boulder. Looking rough. 'O.U. ogres. Heading west. Nervous wison. Next on list. 'Sick room ready. Typos fixed. Dal's poor lads. Sob . . . 36th. 'No release, boys. This is it. Leave us gill!'"

It was signed: "Fearfully from: Fred Casotti, sports publicity director, Colorado University."

Attendance Goes Up in NL Ball Parks

CINCINNATI (AP)—A whopping total of 8,649,567 persons paid to see baseball games in the National League this year. Dave Grote, manager of the league's service bureau, announced Wednesday.

The league attracted 975,155 more spectators than in 1955. The 1956 total was the highest since 1949, when 9,484,718 fans turned the turnstiles.

Four clubs — Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and St. Louis — played to more than 1,000,000 fans on their home grounds. The Milwaukee Braves outdrew all other teams, with 2,046,331 — the third successive year in which Milwaukee passed the 2,000,000 mark in attendance.

Cincinnati Redlegs drew 1,125,928, bettering the million mark for the first time in history.

Pittsburgh's early rush to the top in the pennant race, and its determined playing against the flag contenders in the final days, kept it a total attendance of 949,878, as compared with 469,397 the season before.

Lions (Detroit) Eve Ronnie Knox

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—General Manager Nick Kherby of Detroit Lions says his club would be interested in drafting quarterback Ronnie Knox and adds that other National Football League clubs probably feel the same way.

Knox is playing professionally for Calgary in the Western Inter-provincial Football Union. He played several games with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four before going to Calgary.

The NFL preliminary football draft meeting will be held Nov. 23 and Knox' name probably will come up. The clubs each can choose four draftees at that time. Prior to that Ronnie couldn't be drafted under the rule that players can't be taken until their class concludes collegiate eligibility.

WINERY INFORMED

April 10 Closure On Building

A Victoria Wineries Ltd. building on Denman Street must be vacated by April 10.

A finance committee recommended to council today that it be demolished as a "dilapidated eyesore."

The building is rented to the firm by the city for $10 a year. The deadline is an extension of an earlier lease expiration.

The old building, located on the south side of Denman between Victor and Shakespeare, was for many years used as a warehouse by Evans, Coleman and Johnson. It was widely known as Johnson's Barn.

In recent years the winery has used the building for barrel storage.

Reeve Against Short-Term Sewer Loans

Short-term bank loans to finance Saanich's million-dollar sewer program were dismissed by Reeve Arthur Ash today because they would mean a prohibitive tax on ratepayers.

The bank loan suggestion was made by ex-councillor S. W. Brook, an announced candidate for December elections, at which the sewer by-law will appear in referendum.

"It's not as simple as that," said Mr. Ash. "We are already aware the bank will loan us money on short terms at a rate of 5 1/2 per cent, but we can obtain bank loans only by agreement to pay in 12 months."

"If we were forced to do that we would be forced to put a prohibitive tax levy on the home owners serviced with sewers. What taxpayer would favor that?"

NO PROBLEM
He said the selling of sewer debentures, on the other hand, will pose no problem. "It is a matter of how much we are prepared to lose in a discount loss. Or when is the right time to sell the debentures?"

The reeve said provision has been made in the $850,000 estimate for a higher interest rate and that when the time to sell arrives, the municipality will realize a satisfactory rate.

This plan was laid on advice from financial experts, he pointed out.

WILL TAKE TIME
"The taxpayers are not going to shoulder another huge loss on this project if I can prevent it."

Mr. Ash stated he is prepared to take full responsibility for any delay in the sewer program, since he promised ratepayers a full investigation before commencement of the project.

"This inquiry has taken time, hence the delay. However, the sewer program, if approved, will be proceeded with in the spring."

NEW B.C. LABOR PARTY?

VANCOUVER—A Vancouver newspaper says a move to set up "an all-embracing workingman's political party in B.C." will be made at the merger convention of the B.C. Federation of Labor opening here Nov. 15.

The newspaper reports: "A resolution to the former FLC and CCL provincial labor groups proposes a 14-man committee to investigate the B.C. political structure."

"It would assess the possibility of a 'realignment of political organizations' to form an all-embracing party uniting B.C. and Canadian laboring people."

GREAT MUSICAL talent has been revealed in the development of Canadian pianist Malcolm Troup. The 24-year-old musician will present a piano recital at Oak Bay Junior High School Nov. 8, under auspices of Municipal Chapter, IODE. A student of the late Walter Gieseking, he created a sensation last summer at the Bergen Music Festival in Norway. His European tours have been phenomenally successful in winning acclaim.

MOVIE WORLD

ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Exclusively yours: It's a switcheroo from warbling to straight dramatic acting for Shirley Jones, the gorgeous lark of "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel." Shirley, who recently wed singer Jack Cassidy, will make the change-over in a forthcoming Playhouse 90 drama, and intends to follow through with other non-singing roles in movies.

Alan Ladd and Gary Cooper haven't tried it yet, but Audie Murphy's taking a chance. He's playing a villain in "Night Passage" but grinning: "I don't get killed until the last reel."

Anita Ekberg and hubby Anthony Steel landed in hot water with Italians when they arrived in Genoa for the movie "Interpol." Steel took one look at the historic city and said out loud: "Now I know why Christopher Columbus left."

A youthful Wayne Morris is charging around in old movies on TV these nights, but he says he hasn't seen any of the films. Now a rancher and occasional actor, he's grinning about the late, late shows: "Man, I'm asleep by that time."

There's studio interest in Han Suyin's forthcoming book, "And the Rain May Drink," story about a Chinese girl spy and a British officer in Malaya. In case you've forgotten, Jennifer Jones played Han Suyin, the author, in "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing."

Ann Blyth, fed up with the sugary roles, gets a chance to be hissed in MGM's "Slander." As Van Johnson's wife, she walks out on him when a scandal magazine digs into his past.

The witwit: Chris Schenkel about a Texan: "He's so rich he has a reserve pool of swimming pools."

Roz Russell has 22 costume changes—three of them on stage—in her new play, "Auntie Mame." ... Ever hear of a Republican named Alfred E. Smith? He's the hubby of Shawn Smith, leading lady in U-I's "Land Unknown." She won't be a doll unknown, though, after the film's release.

56 Victorians Sign Up For U.K. Air Trade Trip

Fifty-six business men have tentatively booked reservations on the proposed Victoria Chamber of Commerce air trip to London, England, next April. The trip is aimed at promoting trade between British Columbia and Britain.

Hector Crombie, secretary-manager, said there are now only four seats available on the aircraft.

Sixty passengers are required to enable the Chamber of Commerce to charter a plane from the Canadian Pacific Airlines. The proposed program calls for five days of official receptions, tours and sightseeing in London, with two weeks left for group members to tour Britain and Europe. At the same time members would hold trade talks. Tentative departure date is April 15. The aircraft would leave from Patricia Bay and travel over the Polar route to England.

Publicity Bureau

Then Plugs City

A chore has been turned to advantage by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

For weeks the bureau has been besieged with requests from school children from all parts of Canada and the United States for information on Vancouver Island to assist them in their studies.

"We were practically writing their essays for them," George Warren, publicity commissioner, said. "It entailed a lot of time and work."

But he added with a gleam in his eyes: "We thought up an idea." "We enclosed a letter to the children telling them that when they had finished their school year and their studies about Victoria; they should ask their mothers and dads to bring them out here for a dandy holiday."

Skip-a-Day Delivery Proposed for Milk

A pay increase for Vancouver milkmen with an every-other-day system of delivery has been recommended by a provincial government conciliation board.

The majority report proposed a further $10 monthly pay boost as of July 1 next year for retail and combination retail-wholesale milk truck drivers-salesmen.

In his minority report, Halford Wilson, nominee of milk sales drivers and the Dairy Employees' Union, recommended a $15 monthly increase retroactive to March 1 this year, with a further increase of $17.50 on Jan. 1.

The majority report, signed by A. W. R. Carrothers, chairman, and George Robson, employees' nominee, said drivers should get two consecutive days off per week if it can be arranged under the every-other-day delivery system.

Sooke Names Butler Centennial Leader

SOOKE—Eric Butler has been chosen chairman of Sooke Centennial Celebrations Committee Directorate, which held its initial meeting this week with representatives from 11 of 15 local organizations in attendance.

Suggested as worthwhile Centennial Year projects for the community were a swimming pool, skating rink, completion of tennis courts, playground, and completion of the community hall basement.

Detailed information will be secured for further consideration when the committee is complete.

Mrs. G. A. Acreman is committee secretary. Other directors are Jack Keating, vice-president; Gordon Nixon, James Martin, Lawrie Simpson, Mrs. William Eddy, Mrs. G. Nixon, Mrs. H. Piggott, Mrs. J. R. Horgan, George Pimlott, Mrs. M. A. Perron and Mrs. J. M. Robinson.

Next meeting of the directorate will be Dec. 4.

Water Deal Signed For Power Station

N. Cowichan to Supply Thermal Plant From Chemainus System; New Main Due

CHEMAINUS—An agreement has been reached between the Municipality of North Cowichan and the B.C. Power Commission to supply the commission's new thermal power plant under construction at Bare Point with water services from the Chemainus system.

Under the agreement the power commission will renew 1,900 feet of 12-inch main now serving the Chemainus system, and install its own service main.

Estimated cost of the work is $45,000.

The municipality then will sell water to the power commission at the normal industrial metered rate, the amount due for water being credited against the net capital cost of extensions.

Practical effect of the agreement, Reeve C. A. P. Murison said, is that the municipality is saved the interest on debentures that would have been necessary if the municipality had financed the expansion of the system itself.

Instead, it will pay the net cost of the main renewal with water. Should the plant eventually curtail operations, the ratepayers of Chemainus could not lose, the reeve said. Advantage to the power commission is that it is assured an adequate water supply at a much earlier date than would have been possible otherwise.

UN SPECIAL SESSION TODAY ON HUNGARY

(See Also Page 7)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council was called into special session (at 2 p.m., Victoria Time), today to consider the Hungarian situation.

The call was issued by the new council president, Nasrallah Entezam of Iran, as a result of reports received Thursday night that new Russian units had entered Hungarian territory.

NOVA SCOTIA TRAGEDY

113 Trapped By Mine Blast

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The fate of 113 coal miners trapped more than a mile inside a blast-shattered colliery here grew darker by the hour today.

Harold Gordon, Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation coal chief, announced a section of the shaft leading to the trapped men would be sealed off for "two or three hours" to control a fire burning there. For at least that period there would be no hope of rescue.

Meanwhile the toll grew. A burned body found near the 3,200-foot level raised the number of known dead to 13. Five other men are in hospital.

Mr. Gordon said rescue crews found a fire at 3,200 feet. They could go no closer to the point where the men were working. This was believed to be below the 5,700-foot level. That would be about 4,000 feet from the surface.

FEAR GRIPS TOWN

Grief and numbing fear gripped this colliery town as nearly 20 hours passed without word from the men trapped after a great explosion in the deep underground tunnels of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 4 pit.

The dead and injured accounted for so far were taken from the higher levels of the pit, one of the deepest in the country. This town of 8,000 still would not concede there were no survivors of the blast and poisonous gases that seeped into the mine workings.

"There's still a faint hope," said mine manager George Calder.

The dead, whose numbers rose slowly from one in the immediate explosion at 5 p.m. AST (1 p.m., PST) time Thursday to 12 early today, included two rescue workers—courageous draegermen killed by coal gas after entering the mine to search for the missing.

The 12th victim died in hospital where five other men lie with critical injuries. They had been in the shattered surface buildings and workings above the 3,300-foot level where most of the other miners are believed to have been working. Four of the injured, accompanied by two doctors, were flown to Halifax in navy helicopters.

Two more rescue crews entered the mine in mid-morning, relieving those who had been there through the night.

WOMEN FOLK WAIT

Mothers, wives, sisters and children of the missing men clustered in quiet, tearful groups as close to the pithead as they could.

It was a scene all too familiar in Nova Scotia coal towns after a mine accident.

CANADA PLAN MAJOR TOPIC

Three-Man UN Board To Study 'Cease Fire'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld today appointed a three-man committee to check on compliance with the General Assembly's Middle East cease-fire resolution and ordered it to make its first report by 6 p.m.

His action came soon after an unprecedented emergency meeting of the assembly overwhelmingly approved a cease-fire proposal during the early morning hours.

The Hammarskjöld group comprises United Nations Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, who negotiated the Israeli-Arab cease-fire in 1949, Undersecretary Ilya Tchernychev, senior Soviet official in the UN, and Constantine A. Stavropoulos, UN legal counsel.

A major topic of discussion in UN circles was Canada's suggestion for establishment of a UN military force to guard the Egyptian-Israeli border.

Up to now, the Canadian government has advocated only strengthening of the UN truce observers teams in Palestine under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa. About a dozen Canadians are members of the non-combatant observer teams.

session to catch his plane for New York. The cabinet was wrestling with the position it should take in respect to the British-French armed intervention in the Egyptian-Israeli dispute.

SHOCKED DISMAY
There was a group in the cabinet that had reacted with shocked dismay to be followed by indignation over the British action in moving its forces into the Middle East. This group had favored at first branding the British as aggressors.

UN Police Of 10,000 Proposed

Canada Might Provide Infantry Battalion

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has in mind an international UN police force of 10,000 men to patrol the borders between Israel and the Arab states, a high government source said today.

The source here said the Canadian government thinks a force of some 10,000 men would be "adequate" for this task.

But the source declined to say what contribution Canada would be prepared to make to such a force. Mr. Pearson said in the UN today Canada would be ready to contribute to an international force but did not specify numbers.

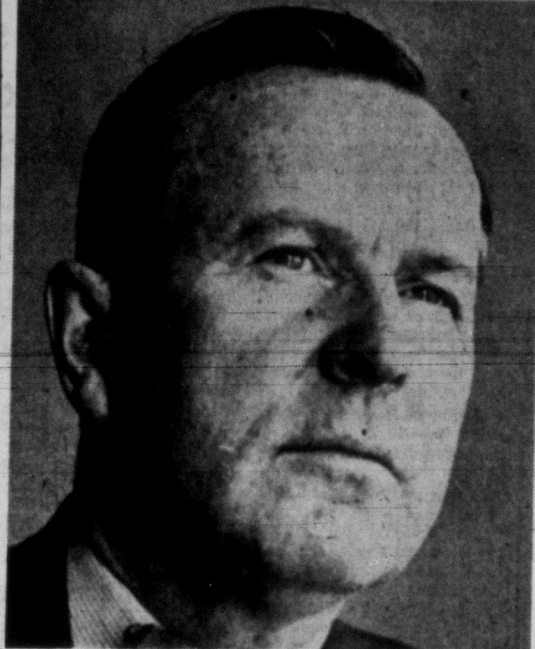

It was considered possible that the Canadian government might be willing to provide an infantry battalion—some 900 men.

The question of an international police force in Palestine has had a sad history in the UN.

Former UN secretary-general Trygve Lie tried to stimulate interest in such a force and after the Korean War some consideration was given to it. However, there was not much enthusiasm among UN members for the proposal. Canada contributed an infantry brigade group, three destroyers and a transport squadron to the UN side in the Korean War.

The proposal by Mr. Pearson in the UN goes farther than any other Canadian suggestion in this field.

Up to now, the Canadian government has advocated only strengthening of the UN truce observers teams in Palestine under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa. About a dozen Canadians are members of the non-combatant observer teams.

CALLS FOR POLICE FORCE

SUEZ AT GLANCE

1. UN General Assembly votes to call for immediate cease-fire.
2. Canada abstains, proposes UN military police force to guard Israeli-Egyptian frontier.
3. Eden confers with French Premier Mollet and may reply Saturday to cease-fire plan.
4. French Defence Ministry says bombing and naval action now about complete and invasion force ready to occupy Suez area.
5. French claim Egyptian air force destroyed with more than 100 planes wiped out on ground.
6. Egyptians say second vessel (fishing boat) sunk in Canal and Britain admits canal is now blocked, temporarily at least.
7. Israeli forces capture city of Gaza, claim Egyptians now routed in Sinai Peninsula.

Ground Forces Poised; Egypt Air Force Beaten

LONDON (CP)—British and French forces tonight were poised for the invasion of the Suez Canal zone.

The French defence ministry announced the invasion was imminent even as French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau flew to London for an emergency conference with Prime Minister Eden.

The Associated Press reported an authoritative British source said they were working on plans to turn over the policing of the Egyptian battle zone to the UN once the Suez has been secured by Britain and France.

Tuesday Deadline

Eden and his foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, conferred with Pineau on the terms of a declaration that an authoritative source said would reject the United Nations call for an immediate cease-fire.

Instead, sources said, the declaration will announce Anglo-French willingness to hand over control of the Suez area to an international force under UN control.

The Anglo-French timetable is said to call for the completion of military operations against Egypt no later than next Tuesday.

The Associated Press reported the two allies hope by that time Egyptian President Nasser will be overthrown and his government replaced by one willing to negotiate.

Allied paratroopers and supporting forces were ready to pounce on the Suez Canal zone. The softening-up stage for the invasion was declared officially over night with crippling blows to the Egyptian air force.

A French communique said "aerial and naval operations henceforth will aim at realizing the conditions necessary for temporary occupation of the canal zone."

A senior Royal Air Force spokesman here said the air raids were aimed at the destruction of Egypt's air force which included 80 British Meteors and Vampires, about 100 Communist MIG fighters and 50 Soviet Ilyushin jet bombers.

Israel's ambassador to Britain, Eilauh Elath, said his country's military operations against Egypt apparently are coming to a conclusion.

"None of our aircraft has been reported missing," a British spokesman said.

The communique said an Egyptian blockade ship attacked by bombers on Thursday had been moved downstream after the attack into a position "partially blocking the canal."

The House of Commons was told Eden will make a statement Saturday on the UN call for a cease-fire in the Middle East after consultations with Pineau. Laborites said they want the government to agree to the UN demand.

A spokesman at Israeli army headquarters in Tel Aviv reported the surrender of Gaza city, Egyptian headquarters for the Gaza strip, after a tank-led Israeli task force smashed into the city.

The surrender put the entire strip in Israeli hands and ended a 24-hour fight for the region. Israeli troops Thursday captured Rafa, the only other major centre in the strip.

The air ministry in London said RAF heavy and medium bombers today were keeping up their non-stop strikes against the Egyptian air bases.

the Egyptian Air Force has been completed.

The Israeli army spokesman reported that troops occupied most of the northern half of the Sinai Peninsula and that only a "battle of pockets" was taking place.

The spokesman said Egyptian forces in the northern Sinai were "fleeing westward to the Suez Canal, to get away."

He added that "tens of thousands" of Egyptian troops, consisting of two divisions, an armored brigade group and auxiliary groups, had faced the Israelis in Sinai.

He conceded that some Israeli units closer to the canal were meeting stiffer resistance.

The spokesman did not reply when asked about the Israeli drive in the southern half of the Sinai Peninsula towards the Enterprise Channel—the narrow strait linking the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Egyptian gun positions commanding the channel have for years blocked Israeli ships from reaching the southern Israeli port of Eilat.

In Tel Aviv Thursday night the Israeli government declared that no war would be initiated against "any other neighboring state."

"If attacked by another Arab state, Israel will fight back. But she will not be the first to attack."

The Israeli embassy in Washington estimated Egyptian casualties—killed, wounded and captured—at 5,000. "Israeli casualties are relatively light," it added, "including less than 100 killed."

In Britain, the Labor movement launched a country-wide "stop the war" campaign, with the announcement of a massive rally in Trafalgar Square Sunday. Protest meetings also were called in a score of British cities.

In the United States President Eisenhower said Thursday night that his administration had chosen "a path of honor" in its stand against "armed aggression" by Israel, Britain and France. His Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson, said the Republican administration should have averted the Egyptian war.

The Egyptian fighting also had repercussions in the Far East. In Peking, Red China's capital, thousands of demonstrators converged on the British legation and shouted support for Egypt and anti-British slogans.

cept the resolution of the General Assembly.

"Only an unqualified statement of that kind will be sufficient to restore in any way the reputation of this country."

Eden refused to today's session to order a halt in military action until he had completed his study of the UN resolution. The Labor party then insisted on an emergency session Saturday to hear the prime minister's views.

The Commons has not held a Saturday session since 1949.

UPROAR RENEWED

Eden's refusal today to commit himself at once on the UN actions touched off another angry scene in the House, with Labor members shouting for him to resign.

Left-winger Aneurin Bevan, speaking as one of the Labor party's recognized leaders, told Eden:

"The vast majority of the UN Assembly has condemned our action in being at war. It is going to be extremely difficult for many of us to restrain action in the country. Will not the government help us a bit?"

"If Parliament as a forum of popular expression is to be denied an opportunity of considering this grave matter, what answer have we got for people outside?"

Denis Healey, Labor, asked amid cheers from the Opposition and shouts of protest from the government benches: "What is the parliamentary expression which comes closest to expressing the meaning of the word 'liar'?"

(Use of the word "liar" is forbidden by the rules of the House.)

The government's victory on the vote of censure served only to increase the virulence of a wide section of the British press in its attacks on Eden and his Middle East policy.

The Canadian delegation formulate and introduce a concrete suggestion into the assembly.

Mr. Pearson according to reports from the UN said that the Canadian government would be prepared to participate in a UN international police force to keep the peace in Palestine, if such a force was authorized. Big question is what position Communist Russia would take if the UN police force proposal is placed before the UN for action.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in serious conversation at the White House during a conference Wednesday on the Middle East crisis.

Eden Wins Confidence Vote After Uproar in U.K. Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Eden Thursday night won a vote of confidence for his armed intervention in the Middle East.

In a rowdy session of Parliament that was suspended at one stage because of disorder, Eden's government defeated an opposition Labor censure motion by 324 votes to 255, a majority of 69.

A government counter-motion asking approval of its decision to send forces against Egypt was carried by 323 votes to 255, a majority of 68.

The House voted first on the Labor motion which deplored the government's "resort to armed force" against Egypt and accused it of violating the United Nations charter, affronting a large section of the British people, dividing the Commonwealth, straining the North Atlantic Alliance, and "gravely damaging the foundations of international order."

The crowd shouted slogans such as "We want peace." Many were overseas students studying at British universities.

In the House of Commons a Labor member rose to say: "Mounted police are charging into people outside. A young woman has been nearly crushed by a horse and a young man going to her rescue has been beaten up by several policemen."

Amid uproar, Mrs. Bessie Braddock, Labor, pointed at government ministers declaring: "Every one of you can be branded a murderer."

driven by the Labor opposition inside and outside Parliament to topple his government.

"This is a police action," Eden told the House. "We stand by it and we will carry it through."

Deputy Labor leader James Griffiths, opening the debate after the 30-minute suspension, declared: "It has become increasingly clear that the government by its action is destroying the empire."

The vote of confidence in the House was accompanied by similar action in the House of Lords, despite sharp criticism of the Eden policy by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Habs' Big Three Outnumbers Wings

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Bill Campbell has a problem that will sound strange to many anglers. He's got too many trout.

Bill doesn't actually have them. But they are swimming around in McGillivray Lake, where Bill has operated the McGillivray Lake Fishing Camp for the past four summers, and he would like to see at least 100,000 fish trimmed from their ranks.

Back in Victoria for another winter, Bill is already itching to return to his mountain lake, situated 35 miles from Kamloops. He'll again be instructing the night school fly-tying classes that start in January but much of time in the next few months is going to be spent pondering ways of providing bigger trout for his customers.

It is a problem typical of mountain lakes. Trout have increased to the point where there is hardly enough food to go around and a big percentage of the fish never achieve normal growth.

Free of ice for only about four months each year, the lake measures a mile and a half long by a half-mile wide and Campbell believes it contains between 300,000 and 400,000 fish. As far as numbers go, fishing in the lake is good and some of the trout grow to almost three pounds. However, most are considerably smaller and Bill would like to see the average size increased to about two pounds.

The answer is either more food or fewer fish, or both. Bill has introduced a type of fresh-water shrimp to the lake in an attempt to provide more food and hopes to learn next summer if the shrimp have survived and multiplied.

Aware of the ever-present danger of upsetting the natural balance, he is considering every possible result while working with provincial game officials on ways of trimming the fish population.

It appears that eventually a poison may be used in the stream flowing out of the lake to kill off some of the spawning trout and a barrier constructed to block off fingerlings from the lake for one year.

This, Campbell hopes, would help him realize his goal of a two-pound average. But even if the trout never get any bigger, he thinks life at McGillivray Lake is right next door to paradise.

Limit Catches at Cowichan River

Weather has made fishing a rugged proposition during the past week but most of those who have been able to dodge the wind and rain squalls have been taking fish.

Salt water fishermen have been hooking into some scrappy winter springs and lots of grise while trout anglers have taken some good catches from the headwaters of the Cowichan River and many of the popular lakes.

Some of the best fishing, and roughest water, has been between Brothie Ledge and Ten Mile Point. Ten Mile was a hot spot last weekend and Trial Island has been a consistent producer.

Gerry Lauder and Jake Martin used Macs Squid plugs to take eight springs off Ten Mile last weekend and Sid Jenkins pulled in at 10-pounder at Trial Island.

Dave Grant almost landed a whopper off Trial, losing what looked like a 35-pounder when his leader broke while he was preparing to gaff the fish.

Small spring salmon and grise have also been providing fair sport at Saanich Inlet. Bill Renfrew took the biggest reported this week, including a 15-pounder in a limit at Goldstream.

At the Brentwood end, O. Efla boated a limit of springs up to nine pounds and Mrs. Ida Rawnsley, after an unsuccessful summer, finally picked up her first sizeable salmon, a scrappy 10-pound coho. George Heathfield took a 13-pound, nine-ounce coho off Bamberton Thursday.

Alex Alexander reeled in a quick trout limit at Shawigan Lake last Sunday. Using an orange bucktail fly, Alex filled his limit in 90 minutes with the largest fish tipping the scales at two pounds.

Several trout limits have been taken on salmon egg flies from the upper reaches of the Cowichan and some of the fish are topping the four-pound mark. Among the limit catches were those taken Wednesday by Archie Hazeldine and Art Christopher of Vancouver.

Rally Wins For Montreal; Bruins Climb

By The Canadian Press

First there was Jean Beliveau, who in three seasons has soared to the heights of hockey greatness. Then Bernie Geoffrion, laboring under the pain of an injured elbow. And Henri Richard, still bothered by an injured knee.

There were others of course, but these three men were the firebrands Thursday night as Montreal Canadiens came up with a great third-period rally to beat Detroit Red Wings, 4-3, and end Wings' National Hockey League unbeaten streak at seven games.

Beliveau, the most feared centre in the game, scored two goals and assisted on a third. Geoffrion picked up one goal and an assist. And Richard, who didn't get off the bench until the third period because of his knee, scored one goal.

It was a big night in Montreal Forum and the 14,519 customers nearly went crazy. It was the third victory of the season in nine games for Canadiens. They finally showed the vaunted power expected of them.

The victory left Canadiens in fifth place. Boston Bruins moved into a third-place tie Thursday night with a 5-2 win over Chicago Black Hawks. Bruins have nine points, the same as New York Rangers and three points behind Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

HAWS STILL FAST

Hawks, with only a win and a tie in nine starts, are last with three points, four behind the Habs. The Detroit goals were supplied by right winger Gordie Howe, left winger Ted Lindsay and rookie Billy McNeill.

At Boston, 10,507 fans were on hand to see Bruins break out with goals in all three periods. They were led by left winger Vic Stasiuk, a former Detroit player, who scored two goals. Singles were registered by rookie Larry Regan, Doug Mohns and Real Chevrefils.

Douglas Kennedy and Ken Mosdell scored for Hawks.

THE HAGEN STORY

Joe Paid Twice For My Ticket

One of the most colorful figures in the world of golf was Walter Hagen. Now, with the aid of Margaret Weston Hagen he has written his amazing life story. Because of world-wide popularity and the fact that he played in the city, the Times takes pleasure in presenting the Hagen's biography.

CHAPTER 12

In 1929 Joe Kirkwood and I met in Los Angeles to get our reservations for the first leg of a six-month tour of Australia and Japan. Joe was always a penurious soul. He kept account of every dime he made and most of the coin stayed close to him.

I had been living pretty well, not participating too much in golf tournaments. Consequently I was short of cash and I put the bite on Joe for $1,000.

He let me have it after some argument and with the understanding it would purchase my steamship ticket. My intentions were good. I usually just had a chance to squeeze money for luck, before going out and rounding up another batch.

This time was no exception. A beautiful diamond bracelet for a very lovely girl, a bon voyage gift, interfered with my passage reservation. I admitted to Joe that the money was no longer with me and he unbuttoned his pocket once more and paid my way.

We steamed on for Honolulu with all our funds in Joe's possession. He kept books and held on to most of the cash for the entire tour.

My Greatest Shot Paid Off

I played the third shot up and left myself eight feet from the hole. Abe had a 30-foot putt and he all but holed it, just missing the cup and stopping on the very edge to the right, leaving me a dead stymie, blocking the hole. Things looked extremely black for me right then—having a dead stymie at eight feet and knowing if I didn't make it I'd be three down with only six more holes to play.

I could putt around his ball, but I could see no possible chance to hole my ball. I decided to use a seven-iron. I looked the green over... back and forth, back and forth. Then I hit my ball just short of Abe's, which lay delicately poised on the very rim of the cup. My ball hit a breath of an inch behind his, jumped it and stayed in the hole! We halved the hole and I was still in business. And that stymie shot of mine disturbed Abe so much he hooked his next tee shot badly, and lost the hole, leaving me only 1 down. I finished the match by winning 2 and 1. That stymie, the greatest shot I ever played, paid off.

Putting has won many a match for me. My penchant for holing the ball has made up for my wildness on the fairway in match after match. Much of the indifferent putting I've seen is due to the fact that the ball has made up for my wildness on the fairway in match after match.

Women Pinned In Car

Elderly Victim In Fair Condition

An 89-year-old woman was in "fair" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today with extensive injuries received when the light-model car in which she was a passenger was involved in a freakish accident Thursday.

Mrs. Eva Wood, 3236 Doncaster, was hurt when the car plunged through a narrow opening in a guard rail at Doncaster and Burton into Bowker Creek after a collision.

The car, driven by Mrs. Emma Kelson, 54, same address, came to rest with its front end in the creek and rear wheels up the bank of the 10-foot ditch.

Police used crowbars to free the two women from the car. Mrs. Kelson was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital, suffering facial cuts, chest injuries and shock. She was pinned against the dashboard. Mrs. Wood suffered two broken legs and head injuries. Police said Mrs. Kelson's car was travelling east on Burton when it collided with a car driven south on Doncaster by Mrs. Alice Halkett, 3225 Doncaster.

Outline Monday On School Building By-Law

Greater Victoria residents will learn Monday how much money they will be asked to vote at December election time for new school construction.

Full details of the number of new projects also will be announced.

District 61 school board chairman W. H. Golby said today trustees and department of education officials are now winding up re-examination of an earlier $3,000,000 estimate. Mr. Golby will reveal the proposed construction program in a noon-hour speech to Victoria Gyro club Monday.

His speech will launch a publicity campaign aimed at winning support of District 61 ratepayers before December election when the by-law is to be presented. Board officials say if the by-law does not pass there is danger of shift systems being started again next year.

35 Properties Up for Tax Sale 10 A.M. Monday

About 35 city properties will go on the block at annual tax sale Monday at 10 a.m. in City Hall council chamber.

Included are residences, vacant lots and at least two commercial properties.

Tax officials say the number is increased over recent years. Last year 25 properties were sold, the year before 22. Some may yet be saved by their owners.

Owners may have the properties taken off the sale list by payment of 1954 taxes. All the properties are three years in arrears.

Even after a property is sold, transfer of title is delayed one year to permit owners to redeem their property. But in this case total unpaid taxes must be paid.

City assessor Alfred Joyce will be in charge of the sales.

Dec. 5 Deadline For Tenders On Solarium

Building Starts By Next Spring

Tenders for construction of the new $800,000 Queen Alexandra Solarium for crippled children at Gordon Head must be received by 5 p.m. on Dec. 5, solarium director John Holdstock said today.

"They will be opened during the second week in December, and we hope to start building next spring, with December, 1957, as the target for completion."

Mr. Holdstock said tenders for kitchen equipment, beds and bedroom furniture will not be called until the beginning of 1957.

The new solarium will be in two levels, with the entrance into the upper level containing the administrative offices. The lower level will provide 64 beds and all patient accommodation will face Finerty Bay.

The building will be of reinforced cement construction and may be expanded to accommodate 96 beds if required.

Facilities to be installed will provide physiotherapy, occupational therapy, hydrotherapy, play and recreational areas, school rooms, auditorium and splint shop.

One-third of the estimated $800,000 cost will be carried by a provincial government grant-in-aid.

Mr. Holdstock said the present solarium at Cobble Hill probably will be offered for sale a few weeks before the new building is opened in December, 1957.

"We believe the old building, with its splendid waterfront location, would make an ideal tourist resort for anyone who wanted to convert it," he added.

Burglar Charged With Theft Of Vancouver Car

An Ottawa man awaiting sentence for breaking and entering was charged in city police court today with stealing an automobile in Vancouver.

Jacques Gougeon, 31, who moved to Victoria a month ago, pleaded guilty and was remanded to Monday for sentence.

Magistrate H. C. Hall said jurisdiction of the Vancouver courts had been waived in this case so it might be heard here. Gougeon brought the car to Victoria.

Gougeon also will be sentenced Monday to breaking into Gavin Jack Tire Depot, 1317 Quadra, over the weekend.

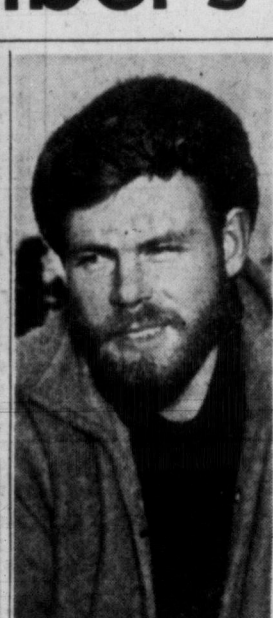

Prosecutor Alan Bigelow asked time to obtain the accused's criminal record from Eastern Canada.

School Board Ready to Swap Old Castle for New Building

Craigdarroch Castle is no longer suited to school board purposes and the board would welcome a swap with the city for a new building, board chairman W. H. Golby said today.

City finance committee Thursday authorized Ald. Austin Curtis and city manager C. Wyatt to investigate taking over the old castle on Joan Crescent as a revenue-producing tourist attraction. It was suggested the castle would earn

Better Tax Deal Chamber's Aim

Delegation Sees Cabinet

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce today urged amendment of the federal tax agreement with British Columbia to give the province "a more equitable share of the income and other taxes collected within the province."

In a delegation to the provincial cabinet, the chamber said it opposed a return to dual taxation of personal and corporate income.

The delegation, headed by chamber president Howard N. Walters and supported by G. F. Dunn, Victoria, claimed that any new tax proposals should ensure that B.C. will not be limited to a basic return.

"We maintain that the tax rental agreement should include provision for adjustments that will provide for increased returns in keeping with population growth and economic prosperity," Mr. Dunn told the Times.

A long list of topics was covered by the brief submitted to cabinet including transportation, tourists, industrial development and power resources.

The chamber urged a speed-up in completion of the highway between Prince George and the Alberta boundary; a new formula permitting more equitable federal participation in Trans-Canada Highway construction, and government efforts to obtain relief from "existing anomalies and inequalities in railway freight rates."

HYDRO DEVELOPMENT It called for development of B.C.'s hydro-electric power potentialities as part of a well-planned, long-view program designed to serve industries and communities.

The brief urged the government to co-ordinate into a new ministry the departments concerned with tourism and recreation. The government was asked to launch a program of industrial development and to establish industrial development offices in New York and other leading world centres.

The chamber asked for effective penalties for illegal action by trade unions or employers; better publicity for the education department's correspondence courses, and revision of government development policy to provide larger loans for land clearing and easing of repayment terms.

Dick, who lives at 2695 Macdonald, is a diesel mechanic who sailed his craft to Kitimat in May with a brother and a friend, staying to work the summer.

His mate, Rippingale, 5138 Cordova Bay, left here to work in Kitimat about a month ago, but decided to make the cruise back with Dick. He was a mill-worker here.

It was the longest cruise either of them ever took in the Dragon, but Dick once signed aboard Bill Teller's schooner Black Dog for a tuna fishing expedition down the American coast.

Reiterating their praise for B.C. coast folk—"The people all the way down the coast were wonderful," said Dick after the Nette was secured at its berth.

At that, they made several attempts to cross the shallow, wave, wind and tide-churned sound, blowing out their mainsail for the first time. The second time this happened was in Lama Passage, near Bella Bella.

Their mainsail twice ripped out by gales up to 50 miles an hour, a pair of Victoria adventurers arrived dog tired in Cadboro Bay this morning after a 25-day cruise from Kitimat.

Sailing the 29-foot Dutch-built Dragon class sloop "Nette," owner Jeremy Dick, 27, and Michael Rippingale, 20, bearded and limp but unbowed, braved chill "October sol" easterly to come home for the winter.

"Sure we'd do it again, but not right away," said Dick.

500 STORMY MILES

Small Racing Yacht Braves Coastal Gales

Their voyage took them over more than 500 miles of rugged coastal waters including treacherous Queen Charlotte Sound where they waited nine days for reasonable weather.

At that, they made several attempts to cross the shallow, wave, wind and tide-churned sound, blowing out their mainsail for the first time. The second time this happened was in Lama Passage, near Bella Bella.

Fishermen Kept Tab on Them

With no radio set or other means of communication on board the narrow beam racing vessel, Dick and Rippingale had high praise for the spirit of fishermen, tug skippers and lonely weathermen at spots along the coast who kept track of the Nette through most of the cruise.

They left Kitimat Oct. 8, putting in at bays and small coast settlements whenever the gales were too fresh or the sail needed mending. Sou'easters were blowing all the time.

Finally getting across Queen Charlotte Sound they navigated to Alert Bay on the northern tip of Vancouver Island, then Campbell River and Comox, where they stayed with friends "and got dried out a bit."

The Nette reached Nanaimo Thursday, sailed at 7 p.m. and after a night's work at the tiller and 5 1/2 h.p. outboard, Dick and Rippingale moored at Royal Victoria Yacht Club at 6 a.m. today.

They have yet to calculate exactly how far they sailed, but estimate the distance at "better than 500 miles."

Dick, who lives at 2695 Macdonald, is a diesel mechanic who sailed his craft to Kitimat in May with a brother and a friend, staying to work the summer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

There Are Treats in Store Even for Those on Diets

By PENNY SAVER

A woman stood staring at the grocery shelves in a local store, and with amazement, said, "Tinned bread and cake! Impossible!" But it's true. Seeded rye bread, baked right in the tins is selling at 49 cents. The same price is white diet bread, baked similarly in the tins. Also for the diet-conscious is golden round cake, low in calories and high in nourishment. The cake costs 65 cents a tin. Sounds a bit strange, doesn't it... a tin of bread!

Chocolate or vanilla freeze-it desserts for dieters are aschandise, so that you can enjoy it fully, knowing that a minimum of calories is going into the sweet.

Raspberry, lemon, orange, strawberry and lime gelatin desserts are made just like regular jelly, except that the result is a treat for those watching their weight. The jelly costs 29 cents a package.

Assorted milk chocolates are 1.65 a box, and assorted continental chocolates, the same price, are low-calorie sweets, specially for dieters.

Into the vegetable market now, I'll tell you in the prices for this week.

Corn on the cob looks very good, and is sweet at four for a quarter. Broccoli is selling at 15 cents for two pounds, and locally grown carrots are two bunches for 15 cents.

California lettuce is 20 cents a head, and a cucumber for that crisp salad is 10 cents. Celery is 15 cents a stalk and green onions are two bunches for 15 cents. Local tomatoes are a good size, and firm, too. They are just 10 cents a pound. The hothouse variety is 25 cents a pound. Sprouts are four pounds for 45 cents and cauliflower is frothy and white, at 25 cents a head. Red cabbage for pickling or dinner dishes is three pounds for 29 cents, and savoy cabbages are 19 cents each. Chinese white turnips are something different. They're much like the shape of a small marrow, and cost 29 cents for two pounds. Swiss chard costs 25 cents for two pounds.

Sweet potatoes, no matter how they're cooked are favorites in most houses. You can buy them at two pounds for 39 cents, the same price you pay for yams.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About accepting a fur coat: My husband died four years ago. Lately I started going with a man who is taking me off my feet. We aren't engaged, but I have an idea we will be. My birthday will be next month, and this man wants to give me a fur coat. I am asking you advice as to whether or not I should accept it. I told the man to let me think it over for a week or two, so would you answer this as soon as possible? My two daughters, age 19 and 22, are strongly against the idea, saying it isn't proper, but I am inclined to think that their attitude is more of jealousy and resentment against any man who may replace their father.

Louise Davis answers: I think you had better turn down the offer as tactfully and graciously as you can. Even if you are engaged to be married, it would be advisable to pass it up. It is understandable that your daughters may resent this man's attentions, for the memory of their father is vivid. But that's neither here nor there as far as propriety goes. You aren't married, nor are you engaged, and there is always the chance that nothing may come

Janet Bartholomew Wears Heirloom Lace in New York City Ceremony

A wedding veil of Limerick lace belonging to her grandmother was worn by Janet Margaret Bartholomew when she became the bride of John MacEvoy Baker in the Chapel of the Incarnation, New York City, last Saturday morning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Victor Bartholomew, 1110 Fort Street, Victoria, who traveled to New York for the wedding.

Mr. Baker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Baker, Butler, N.J. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white lace wedding gown, its full skirt sweeping to floor length and the bodice topped with a peau de sole jacket. She carried her family's ivory prayer book mounted with white roses and stephanotis.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church for the service, which was conducted by Rev. Howard Bingley. Bach choral preludes were of it. An engaged girl or woman doesn't accept anything so costly. So I advise you to be on the safe side and tell this man that you can't accept the fur coat. He will understand. You might tell him, too, if you wish, that your daughters advise against it too. You don't want to subject yourself to criticism.

Try Vegetable Dye To Touch Up Hair

(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I used to have pretty blonde hair but it has become several shades darker. At present it is dull and has a dirty appearance. Is there anything I could use at home to lighten my hair and bring it back to its original color?"

A. All hair turns darker with the years. Why not experiment with vegetable rinses. Be sure that it is a real vegetable rinse and not a light dye. Vegetable rinses wash off, so if you do not like the first shade you try you can use another.

Q. "I am 27 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weigh 136 pounds. My bust measures 35, waist 26, and hips 37 inches. I get tired of wearing full skirts but my girl friends tell me that straight lines aren't for me. Please tell me what you think."

A. You certainly are not overweight. If anything you are a little underweight. Your measurements are also allowable for a good figure. You might take hip slimming exercises to lose an inch or so there. I should think you could wear straight skirts now, but you certainly could after trimming the hips a bit.

Q. "About a year ago I lost some weight and now my friends tell me that I am too thin, but I don't think so. I am 16 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 105 pounds. My measurements are bust 32, waist 23, hips 34 inches. What about my measurements and do you think I should gain some weight?"

A. Everybody's friends seem to be kidding today. I imagine that you should gain from eight to 10 pounds. Even if you have a slight build, you probably should gain five. Your measurements are lovely.

Q. "I am 22 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 94 pounds. My bust measures 32, waist 23 and hips 33 inches. I am always very conscious of having large and expanding hips."

A. Whew! How you can think that your hips are large and expanding when they measure 33 inches, I cannot imagine. You have practically perfect measurements but you are a lot underweight.

Starting out with such proportions I feel sure that you will gain proportionately. Your figure will be nicer and you will be healthier if you gain about 20 pounds.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Richard Gilmer, aged 13, of Payette, Idaho, for his question:

What Are Aphids?

That little green bug on a cucumber leaf is an aphid. Chances are, the gall on the apple tree was made by another aphid. Another aphid weakens our corn by sucking the sap from its roots. Most aphids are pretty insects and all of them have a most fascinating family life story. Apart from this, Andy has little or no good to say about them. We call them plant lice. They feed on the sap of some of our favorite plants, weakening our crops. Some form galls that harm orchard trees. Many carry blights by infecting plants with disease viruses.

The aphids belong to a large branch of the insect family. The average aphid is a small green bug, almost always a female. She often has two pairs of gauzy, lightly veined wings. The back pair is much smaller than the front pair and both pairs are held down her sides when Mrs. Aphid is resting or feeding.

The food is always fresh sap from a living plant. The mouth is a sucking tube which pokes forth from the insect's forehead. Being such a small creature, the beak is not strong enough to pierce bark or strong stems. The aphid feeds on the sap from leaves and tender shoots. A few live their whole lives underground, feeding from the roots of plants like our precious corn.

The fascinating life story of the aphid is hard to believe. The winter is spent in the egg stage. Each kind of aphid places its eggs near its own special food supply. The eggs hatch in the spring and, of all things, every single one of them is a female. Each is a nymph, a minute copy of mama without wings. The little girls eat and eat and grow and grow. Soon they lay eggs of their own and we get a new generation of aphids. This is amazing because there are no papa aphids around. There may be 12 following generations throughout the summer, all of them females and all this without the help of any papa aphids at all.

One batch of eggs in the fall is more normal. It hatches into males and females. These females lay a batch of properly fertilized eggs and these are the eggs that do not hatch until spring. Then the amazing fatherless family cycle begins all over again.

13 DEAD, 113 MISSING

Little Hope For Trapped Miners

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — The fate of 113 coal miners trapped more than a mile inside a blast-shattered colliery here grew darker by the hour today.

Meanwhile the toll grew. A burned body found near the 3,200-foot level raised the number of known dead to 13. Five other men are in hospital.

Harold Gordon, Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. chief, said rescue crews found a fire at 2,200 feet. They could go no closer to the point where the men were working. This was believed to be below the 5,700-foot level. That would be about 4,000 feet from the surface.

FEAR GRIPS TOWN

Grief and numbing fear gripped this colliery town as nearly 20 hours passed without word from the men trapped after a great explosion in the deep underground tunnels of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 4 pit.

"There's still a faint hope," said mine manager George Calder.

The dead, whose numbers rose slowly from one in the immediate explosion at 5 p.m., AST (1 p.m., PST) time Thursday to 12 early today, included two rescue workers — courageous draegmen killed by coal gas after entering the mine to search for the missing.

The 12th victim died in hospital where five other men lie with critical injuries. They had been in the shattered surface buildings and workings above the 3,300-foot level where most of the other miners are believed to have been working.

Four of the injured, accompanied by two doctors, were flown to Halifax in navy helicopters.

Two more rescue crews entered the mine in mid-morning, relieving those who had been there through the night.

CALLS FOR POLICE FORCE

Eden Refuses Bid
To Halt Fighting

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden today held an emergency meeting of his cabinet and military advisers shortly before talking to French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau here about a United Nations resolution calling for a Middle East cease-fire.

Pineau flew over from Paris for urgent talks with British leaders on the resolution approved by the UN General Assembly Thursday night.

The House of Commons broke with tradition and decided to hold an emergency Saturday session to hear Eden's views on the UN resolution.

The opposition demanded that Eden tell the House that he accepts the resolution and that he will hold up any military action between now and Saturday's meeting. Eden replied, "I can give no such undertaking."

A government spokesman said the nature of Eden's statement on Saturday would depend entirely on the progress of his talks with Pineau.

The prime minister told the House today he needed time to study the resolutions. Labor members cheered loudly as party leader Hugh Gaitskill said:

"We expect the government through the prime minister tomorrow to come down and make it plain without qualification of any kind that they accept an unprecedented emergency meeting of the assembly overwhelmingly approved a cease-fire proposal during the early morning hours."

The Hammarskjold group comprises United Nations Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, who negotiated the Israeli-Arab cease-fire in 1949, Undersecretary Ilya Tshernychev, senior Soviet official in the UN, and Constantine A. Stavropoulos, UN legal counsel.

A major topic of discussion in UN circles was Canada's suggestion for establishment of a UN military force to guard the Egyptian-Israeli border.

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA — Moderate elements in the cabinet have prevailed, enabling this country to continue, at the United Nations General Assembly now in emergency session, Canada's familiar intermediary role of striving to resolve the differences between the United States and the United Kingdom over the Middle East crisis.

Hon. L. B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, has set out Canada's position at the UN.

High London Sources
Sketch 'Timetable'

LONDON (CP)—British and French forces tonight were poised for the invasion of the Suez Canal zone.

The French defence ministry announced the invasion was imminent even as French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau flew to London for an emergency conference with Prime Minister Eden.

The Associated Press reported an authoritative British source said they were working on plans to turn over the policing of the Egyptian battle zone to the UN once the Suez has been secured by Britain and France.

Eden and his foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, conferred with Pineau on the terms of a declaration that an authoritative source said would reject the United Nations call for an immediate cease-fire.

Instead, sources said, the declaration will announce Anglo-French willingness to hand over control of the Suez area to an international force under UN control.

The Anglo-French timetable is said to call for the completion of military operations against Egypt no later than next Tuesday.

The Associated Press reported the two allies hope by that time Egyptian President Nasser will be overthrown and his government replaced by one willing to negotiate.

Israel's ambassador to Britain said the British and French forces were ready to move on the Suez Canal zone.

The softening-up stage for the invasion was declared officially over night with crippling blows to the Egyptian air force.

A French communiqué said "aerial and naval operations henceforth will aim at realizing the conditions necessary for temporary occupation of the canal zone."

A senior Royal Air Force spokesman here said the air raids were aimed at the destruction of Egypt's air force which included 80 British Meteors and Vampires, about 100 Communist MIG fighters and 50 Soviet Ilyushin jet bombers.

Israel's ambassador to Britain said the British and French forces were ready to move on the Suez Canal zone.

Former UN secretary-general Trygve Lie tried to stimulate interest in such a force and after the Korean War some consideration was given to it. However, there was not much enthusiasm among UN members for the proposal. Canada contributed an infantry brigade group, three destroyers, and a transport squadron to the UN side in the Korean War.

The proposal by Mr. Pearson in the UN today Canada would be ready to contribute to an international force but did not specify numbers.

It was considered possible that the Canadian government might be willing to provide an infantry battalion—some 900 men.

The question of an international police force in Palestine has had a sad history in the UN.

Former UN secretary-general Trygve Lie tried to stimulate interest in such a force and after the Korean War some consideration was given to it. However, there was not much enthusiasm among UN members for the proposal. Canada contributed an infantry brigade group, three destroyers, and a transport squadron to the UN side in the Korean War.

The proposal by Mr. Pearson in the UN goes far further than any other Canadian suggestion in this field.

Up to now, the Canadian government has advocated only strengthening of the UN truce observers' teams in Palestine under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa. About a dozen Canadians are members of the non-combatant observer teams.

There was a group in the cabinet that had reacted with shocked dismay to be followed by indignation over the British action in moving its forces into the Middle East. This group had favored at first branding the British as aggressors.

ain, Eliahu Elath, said his country's military operations against Egypt apparently are coming to a conclusion.

The House of Commons was told Eden will make a statement Saturday on the UN call for a cease-fire in the Middle East after consultations with Pineau. Laborites said they want the government to agree to the UN demand.

A spokesman at Israeli army headquarters in Tel Aviv reported the surrender of Gaza city. Egyptian headquarters for the Gaza strip, after a tanked Israeli task force smashed into the city.

Canal Closed

In London, Fuel Minister Aubrey Jones said in a speech today that the canal had been temporarily closed, with no ships passing through today. But "it will certainly be the government's intention to see that any closing is as short as possible."

The spokesman said 355 effective sorties were flown from British aircraft carriers and an unreported number by French naval aircraft. Seventy-one Egyptian aircraft were claimed destroyed and 50 damaged in these strikes.

In Paris, a spokesman for the French defence ministry said 500 Egyptian planes were estimated to have been destroyed on the ground or damaged to such an extent that they would take a long time to repair.

The spokesman said: "We consider that the destruction of the Egyptian Air Force has been completed."

The Israeli army spokesman reported that troops occupied most of the northern half of the Sinai Peninsula and that only a "battle of pockets" was taking place.

The spokesman said Egyptian forces in the northern Sinai were "fleeing westward to the Suez Canal, to get away."

He added that "tens of thousands" of Egyptian troops, consisting of two divisions, an armored brigade group and auxiliary groups, had faced the Israelis in Sinai.

He conceded that some Israeli units closer to the canal were meeting stiffer resistance.

The spokesman did not reply when asked about the Israeli drive in the southern half of the Sinai Peninsula towards the Enterprise Channel—the narrow strait linking the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Egyptian gun positions commanding the channel have for years blocked Israeli ships from reaching the southern Israeli port of Eilat.

In Tel Aviv Thursday night the Israeli government declared that no war would be initiated.

"Only an unqualified statement of that kind will be sufficient to restore in any way the reputation of this country."

Eden refused at today's session to order a halt in military action until he had completed his study of the UN resolution.

The Labor party then insisted on an emergency session Saturday to hear the prime minister's views.

The Commons has not held a Saturday session since 1949.

UPROAR RENEWED

Eden's refusal today to commit himself at once on the UN actions touched off another angry scene in the House, with Labor members shouting for him to "resign."

Left-winger Aneurin Bevan, speaking as one of the Labor party's recognized leaders, told Eden:

"The vast majority of the UN Assembly has condemned our action in being at war. It is going to be extremely difficult for many of us to restrain action in the country. Will not the government help us a bit?"

"If Parliament as a forum of popular expression is to be denied an opportunity of considering this grave matter, what answer have we got for people outside?"

Denis Hesley, Labor, asked amid cheers from the Opposition and shouts of protest from the government benches: "What is the parliamentary expression which comes closest to expressing the meaning of the word 'liar'?"

(Use of the word "liar" is forbidden by the rules of the House.)

The government's victory on the vote of censure served only to increase the virulence of a wide section of the British press in its attacks on Eden and his Middle East policy.

'Should Recognize Communist China' Says MacMillan

VANCOUVER (CP)—H. R. MacMillan, one of Canada's foremost lumber magnates, said today this country should formally recognize Communist China.

Mr. MacMillan, a director and former chairman of the board of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., returned from a four-week tour of the Far East Wednesday "astounded" at the industrial and business growth of Red China and Japan.

"We're all going to be shocked when China is recognized and we get in there and see what's going on. There's no doubt about that."

Mr. MacMillan described withholding of diplomatic recognition as an emotional matter.

the cabinet, of which Mr. Pearson was one, cautioned against such a move that would turn Canada's back on Britain. The division led to press reports that there had been a "split" in the cabinet. But while there had been differences of opinion there had been no actual "split," one cabinet source said today.

Mr. Pearson in spelling out the Canadian position at the UN meeting early this morning said Canada would like to see the UN secretary general authorized to arrange for a UN police force large enough to keep border peace while the international conference was convened to work out settlement of the dispute.

The Canadian suggestion was welcomed by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles who spoke again after the General Assembly had approved the American resolution. The American resolution proposed a cease fire and withdrawal of Israeli forces.

After a long distance telephone conference with Prime Minister St. Laurent, Mr. Pearson abstained from voting on the U.S. resolution. Meantime, there was some degree of optimism in Ottawa today that perhaps Canada's proposal—that of a UN police force and international conference—might win considerable support. The optimism was engendered by State Secretary Dulles declaration that he agreed with the proposals. He suggested the Canadian delegation formulate and introduce a concrete suggestion into the assembly.

Mr. Pearson according to reports from the UN said that the Canadian government would be prepared to participate in a UN international police force to keep the peace in Palestine, if such a force was authorized. Big question is what position Communist Russia would take if the UN police force proposal is placed before the UN for action.

Fire-Seared Man Frets Over Dog

Stamp Falls Warden Mainly Worried About Pet After Nightmarish Ordeal

ALBERNI — A 60-year-old man suffering first-degree burns to hands and face made a nightmare walk from his blazing two-room cabin at Stamp Falls to obtain medical aid shortly before midnight Thursday.

Reported "progressing satisfactorily" in the West Coast General Hospital today, was Hal Thornton, fisheries department warden at Stamp Falls, nine miles northwest of here.

Mr. Thornton was asleep in his cabin when awakened by flames. Before he could get clear he was severely burned. He made his way out of his cabin and walked 300 yards to his car up a steep bank, then drove one-half mile to a store and awakened Mrs. E. Dahlman. She phoned RCMP, who came to his assistance.

"His greatest concern was for his dog," said Mrs. Dahlman. The dog, a retriever, was not injured.
